

SOUTH AMERICAN WAR THREAT GROWS

OLD PROBLEMS IN SENATE ON PEACE TREATY

History Being Repeated With Coolidge in Position Taken by Wilson

RATIFICATION IS LIKELY

Debate Vindicates Those Who Favored Ratification
With Reservations

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Copyright 1928, by Post Pub. Co.
Washington—History has a peculiar way of repeating itself and with various reservations.

Discussion of the anti-war treaties by the senate foreign relations committee has placed President Coolidge in the same position that President Wilson took on the reservations to Article ten of the League of Nations covenant, while the remnants of the irreconcilable group are standing exactly where they stood ten years ago arguing against moral obligations in treaties that were not specifically defined.

The difference today is that President Coolidge will not finally oblige, much as he dislikes the idea of senate interpretation of the Kellogg treaty. And the pact will be ratified. But the debate is none-the-less significant, because it vindicates the position of those who believed in the ratification of the league covenant with the Lodge reservations.

The senate foreign relations committee wants to have a resolution passed interpreting the treaty. It will not be a reservation for it will not be attached to the treaty itself and made a part of the resolution of ratification. It will merely be an expression of opinion by the senate and will correspond to the expression of opinion by the British foreign secretary in his note to Secretary Kellogg preceding the signing of the treaty. It is an open question whether the diplomatic correspondence that preceded the signing of the treaties has any bearing on the right of a nation to exercise the freedom of action in an emergency as outlined in those notes. So it is doubtful whether the senate resolution, if adopted, will be construed as a part of the understanding with respect to the anti war treaty.

COOLIDGE VIEW
Mr. Coolidge takes the view that any reservations, or even a senate resolution of opinion which interprets what shall be done in the event that the anti-war treaty is broken, is an academic question and the mere fact of intervention in advance is a weakening of the moral value of the treaty. In other words since the treaty binds the nations of the world not to use war as an instrument of national policy, there is no need to legalize now a breaking of that pledge by providing what may be done in case of defensive war.

Mr. Coolidge thinks there is great value in assuming that the Kellogg treaty binds nations not to go to war and unless there is an aggressor there can be no defensive war circumstances. Mr. Wilson felt that the reservations to article ten weakened that part of the covenant and would not accept them. Those opposed to him insisted that the covenant would bind America to cooperate in assisting the states attacked but Mr. Wilson said no such obligation existed. Mr. Coolidge insists no similar obligation now is implied.
The Senate will probably by two-thirds vote accept the Coolidge view today whereas ten years ago it was not ready to follow Mr. Wilson on the same line of reasoning.

Times are changing and the pro-leagues followers may derive much encouragement from the attitude of the senate if it adopts the anti-war treaties, though at the moment there is no sign of revival by any group of the old idea of membership in the league. Affiliation and association with league activities has for practical purposes taken the place of active membership.

FIGHT IN SENATE SEEN OVER BRUCE DRY FUND "JOKER"

Washington—(AP)—Conferees on the treasury-postoffice appropriation bill Monday struck out of the measure the Bruce amendment boosting to more than $270,- 000,000 the fund for prohibition enforcement.

The bill as passed by the house provided only $13,500,000 for enforcing the dry laws, but the senate added more than a quarter of a billion dollars for this work when it approved, with few members realizing the situation, an amendment offered by Senator Bruce, Democrat, Maryland.

Prospect that the great figure may not be taken out of the bill as simply as it went in developed, however, when Senator Harris, Democrat, Georgia, announced that he had opposed elimination of the increase and intended to carry his fight to the senate floor.

Medics Hold Their Own In Flu Battle

Prescription clerks in drug stores developed aching backs Saturday and Sunday mixing cough syrups, fever powders and other remedies ordered by harried doctors to halt the epidemic of colds which have prostrated more than half of Appleton's population up to date.

Thus far the battle between the "bugs" and the doctors is a draw. Neither one gaining much on the other. The "bugs" had a slight edge up until Saturday but Monday morning the doctors began to see a little light in their uphill fight.

A check-up of public schools Monday morning revealed 1,191 children absent from classes, compared with 1,228 absentees on Friday. There was quite a material improvement in the senior high school which reported 135 absent Monday and 200 out of school last Friday. These attendance figures do not include parochial schools and it is probable that if these were counted the record would show close to 1,800 pupils out of classes today.

LITTLE CHANGE
The situation in business places is showing little change. The number of clerks and employees forced to remain away from their work today is just about balanced by the number returning to work after a few days of enforced vacation. Some merchants are operating with only half of their staffs.

A real problem has been developed at the postoffice where eight employees are missing today. Christmas mail is beginning to arrive in increasing quantities and the postal workers still able to stay on their feet are pushed hard to keep the mail moving on time.

DRUGGISTS BUSY
Druggists reported Monday that never in history have they been rushed as they were over the weekend. Prescription clerks worked from early Saturday morning until closing time Saturday night mixing cough remedies and filling other "flu" prescriptions and Sunday morning they went right back at it again. Several druggists said the demand on Sunday was even heavier than the preceding day.

School authorities were fortified in their stance that schools should not be closed during this epidemic by similar action of the Chicago board of education. Chicago health authorities are convinced that it is better to exclude the sick and segregate the well than to close the schools and permit sick and well to mix promiscuously and spread the infection all over.

Rural schools are hit as hard as those in the city. The number of absentees ranges from 10 to 30 per cent with perhaps an average of 50 per cent all over the county. A. C.
Meating, superintendent of county schools, has advised teachers and school boards to call off a 1 extracurricular activities, such as Chris-mas programs, club meetings and Parent-Teacher association meetings. The state board of health, however, has recommended against closing the schools.

PRECAUTIONS AT FONDY FOND DU LAC

Fond du Lac—(AP)—Because of the influenza situation here, Dr. G. B.
McKnight, city health officer, Monday requested the abandonment of all club meetings and similar gatherings for the week. The school record Monday showed 1,000 absentees or 21 per cent of the enrollment. At North Fond du Lac, the schools and theaters were closed Monday.

SWITCHMAN DIES AFTER ACCIDENT IN GONDOLA
Milwaukee—(AP)—Trapped in the end of a gondola on the Milwaukee lake road here beneath a mass of pig iron Harry Stevens, 42, a switchman, died from loss of blood and shock after rescue workers had to use acetylene torches in order to cut him to freedom Sunday. Jolts of the car caused a shift of the bars which he was working for two hours, before they succeeded in cutting away the end of the car with torches.

FOG DRIVES DOWN FIRST MAIL SHIPS

Airman Forced Down Saturday With First Load of South Bound Mail

The "worst fog in two years" played havoc with the new air mail line through the Fox river valley Saturday and Sunday and was directly responsible for more than four hours delay on Monday. Despite heroic efforts to penetrate the murk blanket which completely hid the earth from airmen at a height of fifty feet they were unable to complete the Saturday afternoon south bound trip and both pilots were forced down, Charles "Speed" Holman landing near Kimberly and Chadwick Smith going down about three miles from Oshkosh. Holman got away Sunday morning and after picking up the mail at Whiting airport completed his trip to Milwaukee, but Smith was forced down again at Watertown. Smith came north Saturday afternoon to help Holman carry the heavy load of mail gathered for the initial flight.

ALL PLANES DOWN
The blanket fog apparently covered the entire eastern half of the county, compelling a general suspension of air mail. For two days not a single mail plane entered or left the Chicago airport. West bound ships from New York were unable to get off the ground and east bound ships from the Pacific coast were forced down near Salt Lake City.

The Northwest Airways, which carries the mail through the valley, was unable to run its planes on the Milwaukee-Minneapolis route. The ships started on their way but were forced down before they completed half the trip.

The fog was so dense Saturday afternoon that the airmen were flying

BREAKS BACK IN FALL OFF SCAFFOLD

Youth Falls 12 Feet at New College Gymnasium and Fractures Two Vertebrae

Ruben Gutschow, son of Mrs. Ad-da Gutschow, 614 E. Pacific street fractured the third and fourth vertebrae of his spinal column at 9:30 Monday morning when he fell from a scaffold 12 feet high while working for the Appleton Construction company on the new Lawrence college gymnasium.

The youth was taken to St. Elizabeth hospital where examination revealed that there was no pressure on the spinal cord, and no paralysis was prevalent. His chances for recovery are good, the attending physicians report. Attending physicians have been unable to give a final report until X-ray examinations have been completed.

FLUCTUATING MARKET HELPS U. S. BUSINESS

Washington—(AP)—Recent stock market fluctuations were declared Monday by Secretary of Commerce Whiting to have strengthened the business situation. The secretary said:
"The market fluctuations have operated to strengthen business conditions, by bringing stock prices down more into line with intrinsic security values."

"In the meantime," he added,
"trade and industry are proceeding at record volume, particularly due to the retail trade of the season and the general confidence in stability of commerce because of the small accession to stocks of goods on hand."

RACINE WOMAN DIES AT 97; HAS 61 DESCENDANTS

Racine—(AP)—Mrs. Barbara Oile, 97, died here Sunday. She leaves 61 descendants—10 children 31 grandchildren; 16 great grandchildren and 4 great-great grandchildren. Mrs.
Oile came to Racine from Germany 84 years ago.

croft, 9, was fatally injured, when he was crushed against a building by an automobile driven by Harry Welch, 16, a seventh grade pupil.
The Welch car climbed the sidewalk and struck another machine at the same time. An inquest will be held.

provement noted in his condition on

TWIN CITIES PUT ON AIR MAIL MAPS

Hire Messenger to Carry Mail from Menasha and Neenah to Appleton

Final steps for giving Menasha and Neenah airmail service were taken Sunday and Monday when a messenger was employed to carry mail from Menasha and Neenah postoffices to the Appleton postoffice for dispatch to the airport and the postoffice department issued instructions to include Menasha and Neenah as a stop on the airmail route on all maps printed in the future.

A telegram from Congressman George J. Schneider announced that the Twin Cities are to be designated as airmail stops.

Temporary arrangements were made Sunday by F. F. Wetzel, acting postmaster, with Harry Macklin, acting postmaster at Appleton, to transport airmail between Appleton and the Twin Cities. The messenger is required to pick up attending mail from Neenah at 7:45 a. m., at Menasha at 8 o'clock and deliver it to the postoffice here at 8:15. He waits at the postoffice here for the postman from the airport and delivers Twin City mail to the postoffices at Menasha and Neenah.

In the afternoon he picks up mail for the south bound plane at the Neenah postoffice at 3:10, at Men-asha at 3:25 and arrives in Appleton at 3:40. Mail brought here on the southbound plane then is carried to the Twin Cities.

The decision of the postoffice department to designate Menasha and Neenah as air mail stops gives the Twin Cities every advantage possessed by other cities on the route except that mail must pass through another postoffice instead of going direct to the airport. This is done to reduce the number of pouches carried by the ships.

3 COPS HURT, NEGRO KILLED BY ROBBER

Little Rock, Ark.—(AP)—Three policemen and a spectator were wounded and a negro killed by an unidentified robber who staged a spectacular gun battle with a score or more of police here Monday. He was captured only after he had been shot several times and probably fatally wounded. Tear gas bombs were used in an effort to dislodge the man, who held police off for more than an hour.

KEPT HIS MONEY IN TIN BOX—THIEF STOLE IT
Kenosha—(AP)—A tin box, it was proved to Joe Laskis Monday is no place to keep money. Laskis had placed a box in the cupboard of his home. In it was $1,089. When he awoke Monday morning the money was gone. He had saved the money to pay his taxes and an installment on his property.

S-4 Sinks Again--This Time As Navy Experiment

Aboard U. S. S. Chewink, off Block Island, R. I.—By Radio to the Associated Press—The submarine
S-4, death trap of 49 men off Provincetown just a year ago, was sunk again Monday this time deliberately.

The navy, which had fitted her reconditioned hull with new lifting hooks or "dead eyes," wished to test this and other apparatus designed to save future seamen from death, and accordingly the crewless S-4 was sent to the bottom of Green Silt pond, a land locked bay off Block Island.

Standing by the submarine as it was sunk were a coast guard control boat, the submarine tender Crank and the submarine rescue ship Falcon.

DEFER VOTE ON KELLOGG PEACE PACT

Committee Hears Reed Plead for Consideration of Moses Resolution

Washington—(AP)—The house irrigation committee instructed Chairman Smith Monday to call up the Swing-Johnson Boulder canyon dam bill on Tuesday and ask the house to agree to the senate amendments.

Washington—(AP)—Daily sessions of the senate foreign relations committee were called Monday by Chairman Borah for consideration of the Kellogg treaty to renounce war as an instrument of national policy as the committee again deferred a vote on the pact.

While the committee spent the morning listening to a plea of Senator Reed, Missouri, for consideration of the resolution of Senator Moses, Republican, New Hampshire, setting forth American rights in connection with the treaty, President Coolidge called in Senator Shipstead of the former state of Minnesota, a member of the committee.

After the White House discussion of the treaty, Senator Shipstead said he was still doubtful as to whether he would support the treaty without some reservation.

Chairman Borah said the discussion Monday could not be classified as a "filibustering" and he believed a vote on the treaty could be taken by the committee within a day or so.

15-CRUISER BILL
Meanwhile, it seemed likely that the administration's bill for construction of 15 naval cruisers would take its place as the business of the senate within a day or two, receiving the right of way by order of the Republican steering committee.

Many treaty advocates had hoped to oppose the bill from President Coolidge who favors having the navy measure in senate consideration.
The resolution submitted on Friday by Senator Moses declares the "sense of the senate" on American rights in connection with its ratification of the treaty.

Although its author would have the resolution considered entirely separate from the treaty, it has met opposition from President Coolidge who favors having the senate approve the treaty sponsored by Secretary Kellogg without qualification.

As a result, a real row has broken out in the administration ranks in the senate and the first attempt on Saturday of the president to collect his forces appeared Monday to have failed. After they had been called to the White House, Senators Johnson of California, and McLean of Connecticut, Republican members of the foreign relations committee, were counted among those favoring the Moses resolution.

BOY PLEADS GUILTY OF SLAYING WOMAN TEACHER

Stanton, Mich.—(AP)—Jimmie Dea-sons, 15-year-old confessed slayer of Miss Flossie Carter, Sheridan, Mich., school teacher, pleaded guilty when arraigned on a homicide charge.

The court deferred passing indefinitely and ordered testimony taken to determine whether the charge in the state's information was first or second degree homicide. The school boy previously had been found sane by a sanity commission. If the charge is made first degree homicide a life sentence will be mandatory.

MICHIGAN MAN DIES IN AUTOMOBILE CRASH

Ironwood, Mich.—(AP)—Olaf Hov-inen, 35, of South Range, Mich., died at a hospital early Monday of a fractured skull, received when his car skidded and turned over 18 miles east of here Sunday. The death of Hovinen is the tenth from motor traffic on the Gogebic range this winter.

9 o'clock Monday morning the submarine rested on the bottom, 55 feet down.

The task of lifting her was started immediately. A corps of divers working under Chief Gunner Clarence Tibbals, a member of the diving crew which worked on the S-4 at Provincetown last winter, was aboard the Falcon to carry out the underwater part of the experiment.

Epidemic Makes More Work For Good Fellows

No one is hit harder by the epidemic of colds and influenza sweeping over the city than the poor and no where is it causing as much distress as in the homes of these unfortunate.

If there were any hopes for a merry Christmas in the homes of the poor it has been blasted by the epidemic of sickness particularly severe in homes where lack of ordinary facilities has reduced resistance to disease to a minimum.

Good Fellows are urged to be particularly liberal this year because the need for their help is particularly great. Women of the four cooperating charities are working hard trying to relieve the distress of the poor but their work will be badly handicapped unless they are given generous support by Good Fellows.

Afghan King Too Modern-- Revolt Move Spreading

New Delhi, India—(AP)—Reports from the frontier state that King Amanullah of Afghanistan and Queen Soraiya have taken refuge in a fort, the army having turned against them.

While reports of disturbances in the remoter sections of Afghanistan have been reported recently, Monday's advices were the first indicating that the disaffection had spread to Kabul, a city of about 100,000 population and the capital of the kingdom.

The trouble at Kabul was attributed to the king's drastic westernization reforms and to Queen Soraiya's desire to abolish purdah, or the seclusion of women.

No letters have been exchanged between Kabul and India for the past month, but the telegraph lines are still working.

Serious fighting was afoot in the Afghan capital Monday, and considerable anxiety prevailed.

The situation in Afghanistan has changed for the worse in the last two days and fighting between the government and the rebels was reported Monday both from Kabul and Jalalabad, near the Indian border.

The rebels had some success in the vicinity of Kabul, capturing two small forts and munitions.

At Jalalabad, the Shiwar and Khuguan tribes ceased negotiations with the government and took the field. They captured the Afghan outpost of Jaja and also inflicted casualties on the regulars and irregulars.

Considerable anxiety was felt regarding Kabul and the safety of the foreign representatives in the capital.

King Amanullah, returning from Europe last summer, introduced a series of westernizing reforms. He established a representative form of government, reorganized the laws, established western dress, abolished polygamy, and gave women equal civil rights with men.

These reforms resulted in several movements against him. One movement was led by a Moslem saint who objected to the compulsory education of women. Another was led by the Shiwar Tribesmen, who were angered by an order requiring them to take out certificates of nationality, since they acknowledged only nominal allegiance to the king. On Dec. 3, reports from India said that the Shiwar movement was gaining headway and that other tribes have joined in this revolt. Four days latter, a despatch to the London Daily Mail said that the Shiwaris had been repulsed and the uprising appeared to have been checked.

KEGONSA WOMAN
BURNS TO DEATH
Automobile Tips Over in Ditch Near Fond du Lac and Catches Fire
Fond du Lac—(AP)—Mrs. Julia Bostrick, 48, of Kegonsa, burned to death Monday when a car in which she was riding with Gerhard Edwards, Sheboygan, and Keith Marshall of Gillingham, tipped over in a ditch and caught fire on highway 23 east of here.

Edwards, president of the Edwards Transportation company of Shebo-yan, and Marshall were seriously burned in an attempt to save the woman.

Mrs. Bostrick, who is Edwards' housekeeper, was returning to Sheboygan from Madison with the two men.

The accident happened, it was said, when Marshall, driving the car, tried to look at the side of the road to see what made the motor "spit."
The car left the road, knocked down five guard posts, tipped over and caught fire.

ZIMMERMAN UNCERTAIN ABOUT HIS NEXT JOB
Madison—(AP)—Governor Fred R.
Zimmerman is not yet certain as to his occupation after the first of 1929,
he told the Associated Press Monday.
The outgoing executive said further that he did not know whether his future employment would be settled before the end of his term.

The governor said many persons had come to him with rumors as to his appointment to a U. S. marshal-ship in eastern Wisconsin, but that he "don't know what the job amounts to, who is to have it, or what it pays." He refused, however, to say whether anyone talked to him directly about the post.

Concerning another report that he might even leave Wisconsin for his future work, the governor said
"That is possible, although unlikely.
It would be pretty hard to just pull out of the state in which you have lived most or all of your life."

DISMISS CHARGE IN ALLEN-A STRIKE CASE
Kenosha—(AP)—Charges of operating as a detective without a license, filed against Leslie Zales, 27, of Chicago, were dismissed Monday morning by Judge Slater in municipal court. Zales was arrested last month and told police that he had been hired to come here to stir up disension among Allen-A strikers.

The court held that there was insufficient evidence to prove that the offense had been committed. Zales purported confession was not admitted as testimony during the preliminary hearing.

Zales, however, has another charge pending against him. Criminal destruction of property. He is held in the county jail.

CAR SMASHED, DRIVER SAFE, RACING TRAIN
Racine—(AP)—An attempt to "beat" a train by driving down the railroad right of way after his car crashed through a crossing gate Monday morning was unsuccessful and Rex Slater, 22, had to jump for his life.

Slater's car ran through the gates at the State street crossing just as a North-western passenger train was coming. Unable to get to the tracks and turn his car down the tracks and pulled it 200 feet before he saw that he could not get to the next crossing in time. He jumped, and was uninjured. His car was demolished.

Clashes Between Troops on

BULLETIN
Lima, Peru—(AP)—The Paraguayan legation to Peru states that Bolivian troops have marched against the Paraguayan Fort General Aquino.
"In view of these facts," the lega-tions statement said, "measures in accordance with the situation will be taken."

Later despatches from Asuncion reported a number of clashes of recruits had been mobilized by Paraguay and there was deep concern in Lima over the situation. "The general feeling was that unless effective steps were taken quickly, formal

TRIBUTE PAID TO FIRST MEN TO FLY PLANE

Wrights, "Flying Fools" of 25 Years Ago, Are World Heroes Today

BY WILLIAM E. BERCHTOLD
Associated Press Aviation Editor
Kitty Hawk, N. C. (AP)—Kill Devil hills, windswept sand dunes on the North Carolina coast, became an international shrine Monday as an "air-minded" world paid tribute to the men it called "flying fools" 25 years ago.

Orville Wright, the first man to fly, was the center of an international celebration in observance of the twenty-fifth anniversary of man's first flight. Scores of hardy seafaring folk anxiously awaited the return of the man whom they regarded as "fool-hardy but harmless" a quarter of a century ago.

The four living witnesses of the Wright brothers' first flights here, 25 years ago Monday, related incidents from their memory of the first flight.

Three of the men, John T. Daniels, W. S. Dough, and A. D. Etheridge, are now past 50 years of age. The fourth living spectator of the first flight, John Moore, was only 15 years old on that December morning 25 years ago, when the Wrights asked the Kill Devil hills life saving crew to aid in launching their flying machine.

ALL WERE SKEPTICAL
Moore trudged up through the heavy sands against a biting wind to watch what the little group expected to be another flying machine that would not fly. The men helped the Wrights place their machine on its track and waited with mixed sentiments of hopefulness and pessimism as Orville Wright climbed into the kite like machine.

The engine was warmed up; the propeller churned in the stiff wind; a wire holding the machine was released, and it started down the track. Wilbur Wright ran alongside the right wing, ready to balance it on the track. The machine dashed down its rails and lifted into the air, flying 120 feet in 12 seconds before settling onto the sand without damage.

It was a short flight compared to the present world record of more than 4,400 miles between Rome and Brazil, but it proved for the first time in the history of civilization that man could fly in a machine of his own design.

30 NATIONS PAY TRIBUTE
Monday representatives of more than 30 nations as well as delegations from the senate, house of representatives, state department and a dozen American aeronautical interests gathered here to honor Orville Wright and the memory of his late brother, Wilbur. Senator Hiram Bingham of Connecticut, president of the National association, was named to unveil a huge granite boulder bearing a memorial tablet upon the very spot from which the living spectators of the first flight remember seeing the Wright plane take off.

Dwight D. Davis, secretary of war, carried the government's official message of tribute to the Wright brothers, incident to laying a cornerstone for a government memorial to the Wrights atop Kill Devil hill.

WARN LOCAL CITIZENS OF NEW STOCK SCHEME

The stock selling scheme of the Strattons Mines company, letters on which have been received by practically every prominent Appleton business and professional man, is not approved by the state railroad commission nor has application for approval been made, according to word received by Kenneth Corbett of Appleton chamber of commerce.

Because the commission has no jurisdiction over the company if it uses the mails or interstate commerce to attain its aims, no immediate action can be taken to stop the procedure. However, the commission has advised the chamber to warn Appleton people that the company probably is another wildcat stock proposition.

KING'S ILLNESS RESEMBLES FLU, FISHBEIN SAYS

Influenza Hits Hard and Its Complications Are Severe

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the second of a series of four articles on the nature and treatment of influenza. In this article Dr. Fishbein discusses the course of the disease and complications.

BY DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN
Editor Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine

Infectious diseases have what is called an incubation period, representing the time between the arrival of the germ in the body and the beginning of the symptoms. For influenza this appears to be very short, namely, between 24 and 48 hours.

The onset of the disease is sudden. Extreme sore throat is unusual. The patient usually goes to bed promptly with symptoms of chills and fever.

Sometimes there is nosebleed and not infrequently rapidity of the pulse. By the second to the fourth day the disease has become quite severe and thereafter, if the patient is tending toward recovery, it lessens in its severity.

PAINS AND WEAKNESS

There are usually pains in the muscles, great weakness, headache, slight cough, sometimes severe backache. In some cases also the bowels may be involved. The amount of running from the nose varies as does also the amount of prostration and there is sometimes plum colored appearance of the face, lips and chest which may develop in severe cases.

In practically all of the cases that died, pneumonia is a secondary complication so that in 1918 reference was frequently made to the disease as influenza-pneumonia. Other complications may involve the sinuses, the ears, the eyes and the nervous system.

In extremely severe cases the pneumonia may be complicated by the formation of fluid or pus in the chest, the lining of the chest wall may be inflamed, producing pleurisy and according to whether or not fluid or pus may be formed, pleurisy with effusion or pleurisy with empyema.

KING GEORGE'S ILLNESS

The story of the case of the King of England resembles closely such a sequence of events, if one may judge from the bulletins regularly issued. It is significant of respiratory diseases of this type that the human body does not develop a strong immunity to them and the duration of immunity is brief.

Hence it is argued that the amount of exposure to the disease, the number of germs received and other factors are most important in determining how many people are going to be attacked by the disease than of individual resistance to the disease.

RESISTING NEW ATTACK

People who have suffered the illness a year previously apparently are not able to resist a new attack in many instances. There is some evidence that a little immunity is acquired immediately after an attack and that this persists for several months but apparently not much longer.

Compared with the amount of immunity produced in human beings against such diseases as smallpox, typhoid fever, or scarlet fever after a single attack, the immunity conferred by influenza is negligible.

Cheering Crowds Greet Herb's Party In Uruguay

Montevideo (AP)—Uruguay took the occasion of Herbert Hoover's visit Monday to display its friendship for the United States. Mr. Hoover was greeted by enthusiastic crowds after his arrival Sunday night from Buenos Aires, the only disturbance being when a small group of spectators shouted "Viva Sandino."

Despite the strenuous program that he carried out in Buenos Aires, Mr. Hoover appeared to be in fine physical condition Monday and seemed to be enjoying his experiences. He felt that his frank and free exchanges of views with the presidents of various countries would result generally in better understanding between the governments of North and South America. He expected to have time to present the viewpoints of the United States on many subjects of interest to the Americas and their future relationship before leaving here for Rio Janeiro Tuesday.

He was to be received by the chamber of deputies during the day. President Campeseguy will give a dinner in Mr. Hoover's honor Monday night. Mr. Hoover came to Montevideo on the Argentine cruiser Buenos Aires.

When the cruiser arrived a salute was fired from the guns of Cerro Fort and the Uruguayan cruiser Montevideo. Foreign Minister Rufino Dominguez welcomed Mr. Hoover when the cruiser docked and escorted him down the gangway which was decorated with the Stars and Stripes. The president of Uruguay was waiting on the pier with members of his family and expressed his pleasure at the visit.

HOTEL FLOOR RESERVED

Mr. Hoover spent the night at the Parque hotel where an entire floor had been reserved for him. One wing of the hotel contains the Casino of Montevideo where roulette and other games of chance are operated under government monopoly.

Enroute Mr. Hoover sent this message to President Irigoyen of Argentina: "I carry happy recollections of your country and its people. The wonderful progress made by the Argentine republic of which I had read, has been fully confirmed during this memorable visit to your favored country, but the generous hospitality, courtesy and high culture of its people had not been adequately described. While still enjoying the hospitality of the cruiser Buenos Aires, which your excellency so kindly placed at my disposition for the voyage to Montevideo, I cannot fail to ask you again to accept the sincerest thanks of my colleagues, my wife, and myself for all that has been done to make the visit to Argentina an unforgettable episode in our lives."

"It is a source of deep satisfaction to have had this opportunity of discussing with your excellency in a frank and friendly manner the forces in progress in our respective countries."

Leaving Tuesday on the U. S. S. Utah, Mr. Hoover will conclude his South American tour with a three days stay at Rio Janeiro, sailing for home Christmas eve.

MINISTERS MEET TO PLAN CHURCH CENSUS

Ministers of churches of all denominations in the city will meet at the Y. M. C. A. at 7:30 Monday evening to discuss the proposed city-wide church census. The census is to be conducted by cooperating ministers, chamber of commerce, class in statistics at Lawrence college, and the Y. M. C. A. Eighteen ministers have already signified their intentions of cooperating in making the census, it was reported.

MANY HERE END COLDS QUICK, PLEASANT WAY

Unique Method Doctors Advise for Home Use Gives Almost Instant Relief

Glad that she took her doctor's advice instead of allowing neglect to make her feel more miserable, Mrs. Albert H. Haines now realizes how quickly one can get rid of a cold. For doctors are now advising home use of a pleasant hospital method that has brought surprisingly quick relief to numbers of people in Appleton and vicinity.

Mrs. Haines had neglected her cold three days in the hope it would "cure itself." Instead, congestion started spreading, so that she called the doctor, who advised double strength doses of Ayer's Pectoral. Relief began almost instantly, he reports. In another hour or so the medication of mild cherry, terpin hydrate, etc., was absorbed by her system, loosening up congestion. By night her temperature was normal, the "achy" feeling was gone and in a day or so there was no trace left of the cold.

Note: Other cases reported daily—this hospital certified medicine quickly penetrates and heals inflamed linings of the air passages. Absorbed by the system it helps rid the body of the cold, throat and chest.

Just a few pleasant spoonfuls of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral now and then, too, will make a different person tomorrow. At Schlitz Bros. and all druggists—50c, and, twice as much in $1.00 hospital size.

Simplicity of design means better *P*ERFORMANCE

"MAKE it better—make it simpler" has always been the keynote of Ford engineering and manufacturing methods. This policy has been carried forward to its highest, fullest expression in the new Ford.

You see evidence of a carefully planned simplicity of design the instant you lift the hood. Its value becomes increasingly apparent when you drive the new Ford.

Smoothness, quick acceleration, remarkable hill-climbing ability, speed of 55 to 65 miles an hour—all these are brought to you in the new Ford without sacrificing economy and reliability. The whole tendency is to give you the most performance with the least machinery.

This applies not only to the engine but to every detail of the electrical, ignition, cooling, lubrication and fuel systems. The engine itself is but one part of a motor car.

An example of Ford simplicity of design

Take the engine lubrication system. It is a combination of pump, splash and gravity feed and is unusually reliable and effective. There is but one movable part—the pump.

FEATURES OF THE NEW FORD CAR

Beautiful low lines

Choice of colors

Remarkable acceleration

Smoothness at all speeds

55 to 65 miles an hour

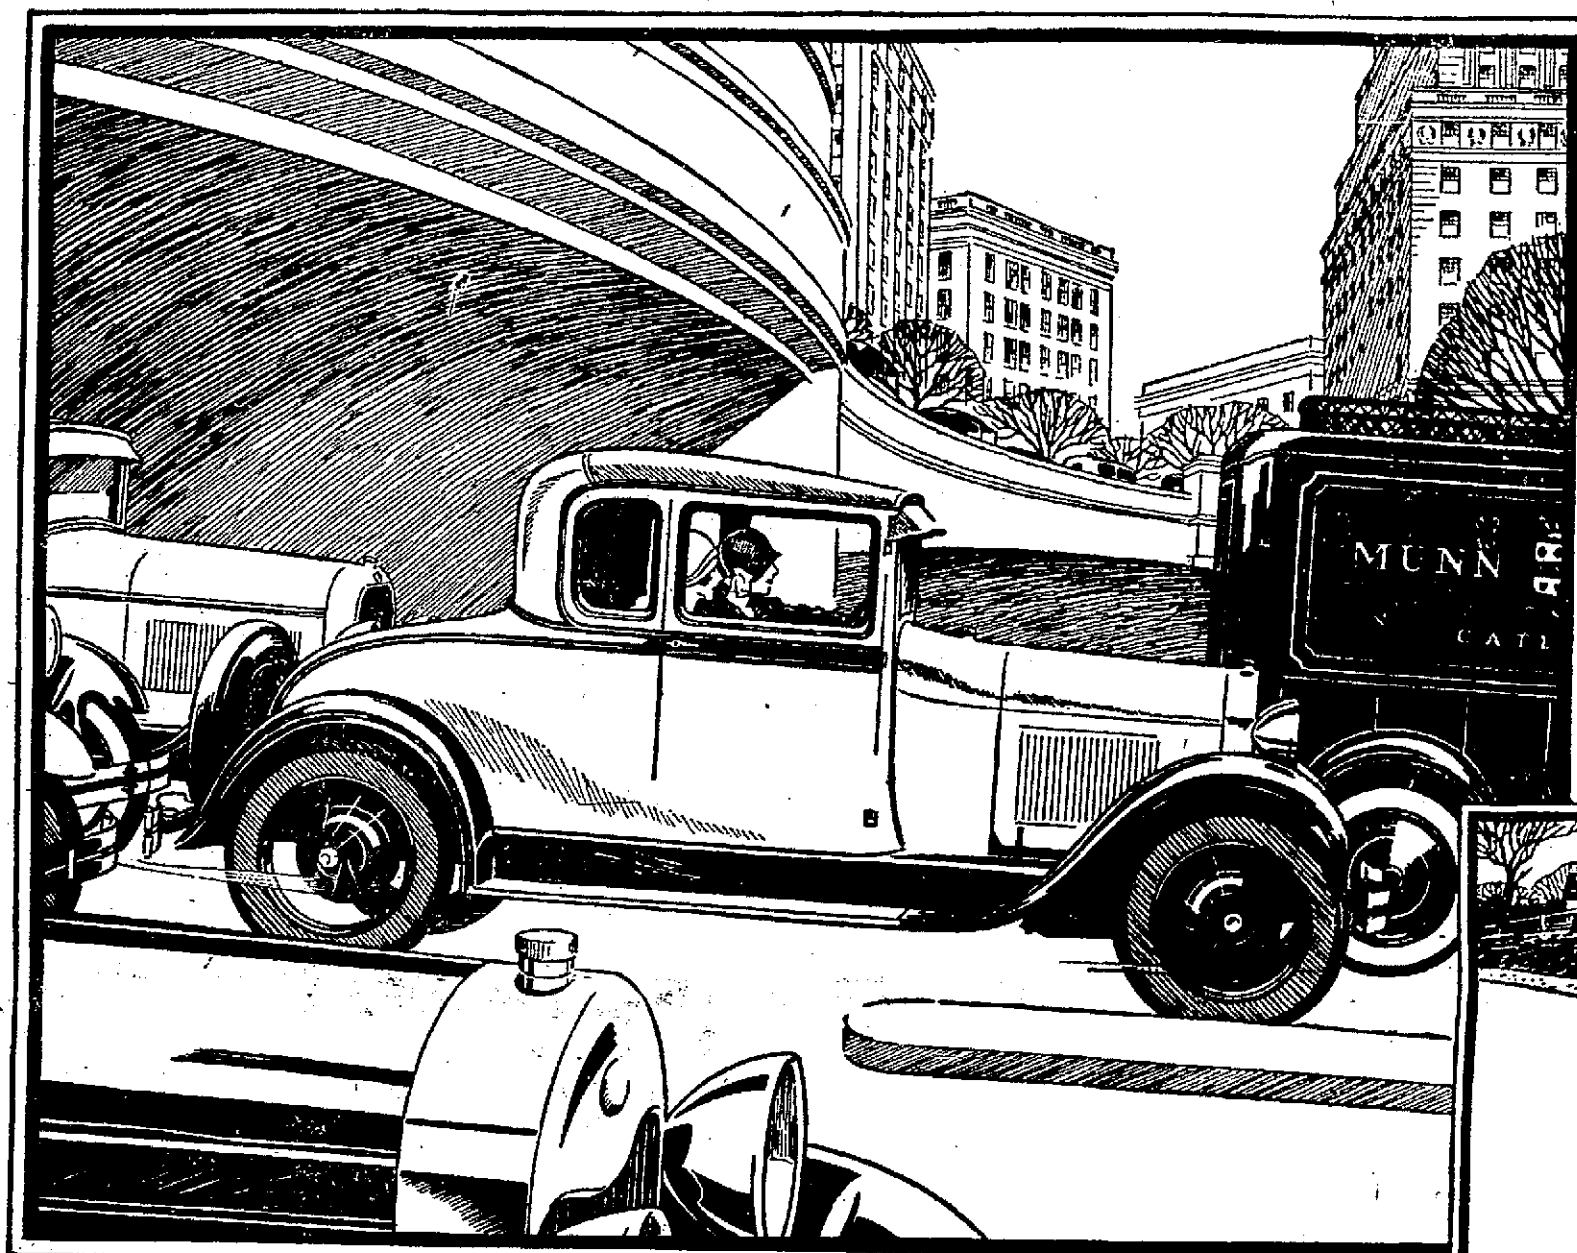

Silent, mechanical internal-expanding six-brake system, with all braking surfaces fully enclosed

Houdaille hydraulic shock absorbers

Triplex shatter-proof glass windshield

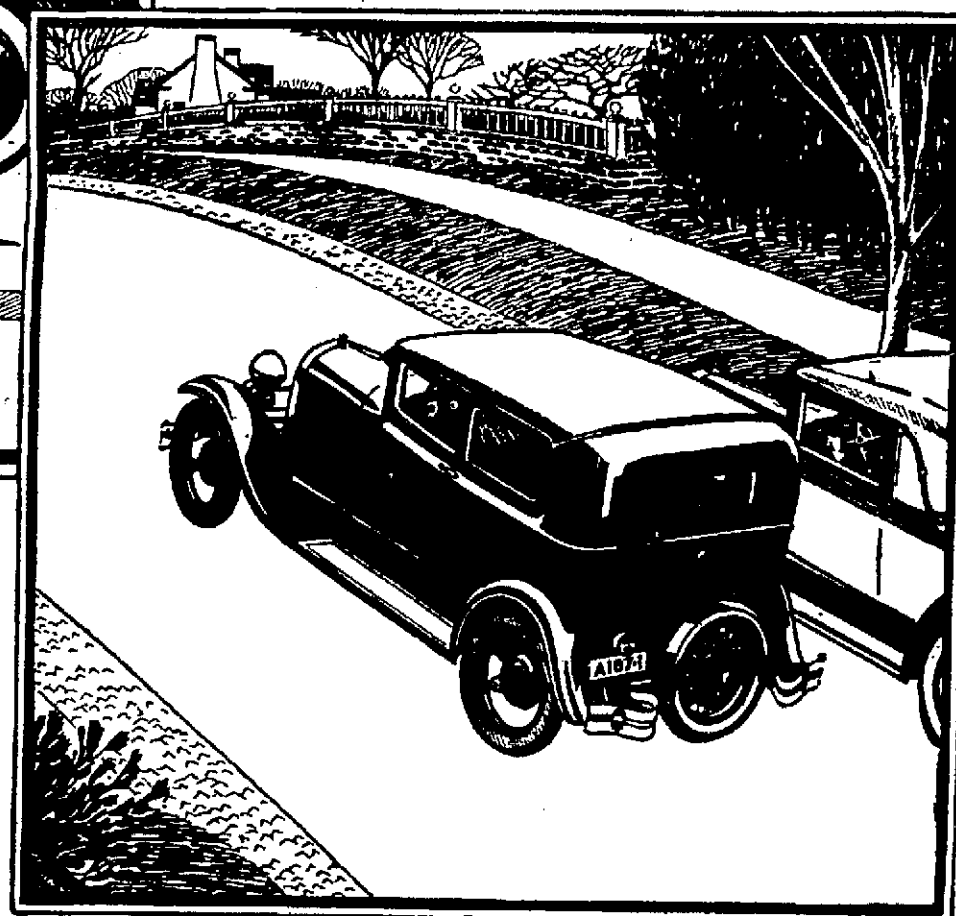

Reliability and economy

Prices of the new Ford—Roadster, $450; Phaeton, $460; Tudor Sedan, $495; Business Coupe, $495; Coupe, $550; Sport Coupe, with rumble seat, $550; Fordor Sedan, $625. (All prices F. O. B. Detroit.)

The new Ford Coupe is distinguished by the trim sturdiness of its lines and beautiful colors. An unusually good choice for the woman driver because it is so reliable, safe and easy to control. The Triplex shatter-proof glass windshield is an important safety feature.

Everywhere you go, you note the smooth speed, power and acceleration of the new Ford—its alert, capable performance in traffic, on hills and on the open road. It has set a new standard for a low-priced car.

From valve chamber down, the entire flow of oil is as simple in principle as water running downhill. Ford design and Ford manufacturing methods have made it trouble-free. The only thing for you to do is to see that the oil level never falls below low (L).

Only one high-tension cable in ignition system

This same trouble-saving simplicity of design is shown also in the Ford ignition system, which reflects much that is new in mechanical design.

A particularly unique feature is the elimination of high-tension cables from the distributor to the spark-plugs, these connections being made by means of thin bronze springs. There is but one high-tension cable and this connects the coil on the dash with the distributor.

The distributor head itself is water-proof and has been specially designed to prevent short circuits from rain, snow, etc.

Another exclusive Ford development is shown in the construction of the housing of the steering gear mechanism. This is made of three steel forgings, electrically welded together.

The housing is then electrically welded to the steering column, thus making a one-piece steel unit.

Many other vital parts of the new Ford are also electrically welded, permitting the use of steel forgings instead of stampings or castings and giving greater simplicity and strength than if several parts were riveted or bolted together.

More steel forgings, in fact, are used in the new Ford than in almost any other car, regardless of price.

All six brakes are silent and fully enclosed

Equally important to good performance is the design of the brakes on the new Ford. The six-brake system is unusually safe, reliable and effective because both the four-wheel service brakes and the separate emergency or parking brakes are of the mechanical, internal-expanding type, with all braking surfaces fully enclosed for protection against water, sand, dirt and grease.

For many years this has been recognized as the ideal combination. It is now brought to you on the new Ford because a simple, easy way has been found to accommodate two sets of full internal brakes in a two-in-one brake drum of great strength on the rear wheels.

A further improvement is effected by the self-centering feature of the four-wheel brakes—an exclusive Ford development. Through this construction, the entire surface of the shoe is brought in contact with the drum the instant you press your foot on the brake pedal. This prevents screeching and howling and makes the Ford brakes unusually silent.

Such simplicity of design is not easy to achieve. Yet it is the first essential of good performance in a low-priced car.

It is made possible only through Ford manufacturing and production methods and the experience gained in making more than fifteen million automobiles.

Back of the new Ford is a larger purpose than the making or selling of a motor car. It is to bring the benefits of modern, economical transportation to all the people and to help every motorist get the greatest possible use from his car over the longest period of time at a minimum of trouble and expense. That is the reason for the value that has been put into the new Ford. That is the reason for its outstanding performance.

Manitowoc—Dr. William Stoelting, 76, health commissioner of Oconto, and the father of Roland Stoelting, commissioner of public works of Milwaukee, died here Saturday night shortly after his automobile collided with another machine. Dr. Stoelting had driven from Oconto to Manitowoc alone to make a call on a sick niece. Within two blocks of his destination the accident occurred and the doctor received a slight cut on his head. He drove his car to his niece's home, but fell dead soon after his arrival.

Marquette, Mich.—(AP)—Hugo Miller, wanted in Fox Lake, Wis., on a larceny charge, left here Sunday by automobile for that city, in custody of the Dodge-co sheriff. Miller was employed as a chef in a Marquette hotel until his arrest.

The team also made a record in the league by rolling a total of 2993 with games of 1011, 1004 and 987. Muench rolled the high score of 671. The Neenah Alleys won two of three games rolled Sunday at Fond du Lac.

WAR THREAT GROWS IN SOUTH AMERICA

ities, attacking positions near the frontier and capturing a Paraguayan garrison of about 30 men.

Under the new aggression, greater, deliberate and unjustified, the cablegram said, "the government of Paraguay had to give way to the overwhelming necessity of taking the most urgent measures for the defense of its territory."

The cablegram also asserted that Bolivia was only seeking a pretext to provoke "the war which has been preparing against Paraguay."

OTHER CHARGES MADE

These charges were only a part of the charges and countercharges made through the Bolivian and Paraguayan legations during the day.

Juan Ramirez, Paraguayan charge d'affaires, accused Bolivia of seeking war for territorial aggrandizement and of using loans made in the United States for preparing for war.

Minister De Medina of Bolivia, countered by denying that his country sought war, or had used loans made in the United States for armaments. He said there was no doubt that Paraguay had been the aggressor in the first clash of troops at Port Vanguardia, on Dec. 6 and claimed this refuted the claims of Bolivian aggression.

There are also different versions of what happened during the latest fighting, though both countries say armed conflicts took place. The capture of Fort Boqueron by Bolivian troops was indicated in most of the dispatches, though the commander of the Paraguayan forces in the region where the clashes took place in his communique said the Bolivians withdrew "badly beaten."

In a message to the league of nations Bolivia said that further clashes had taken place and that after a "sanginary battle" the Paraguayans had taken back the town of Lita. Official reports from Bolivia, were that more than 100 Paraguayan soldiers were killed, while Bolivian losses were light and that the Bolivian troops had captured 30 wagons loaded with provisions and munitions, as well as numerous prisoners.

TROOPS MOBILIZED

Asuncion, Paraguay.—(AP)—Partial mobilization of Paraguayan forces has been decreed. Those between 18 and 23 years of age must report for duty before Tuesday.

Both chambers of parliament being in recess, the decree was read before the council of ministers by President Guggiari. The action was described as being considered necessary to provide for defense.

Later the decree was made public, advising from the Paraguayan forces in the border region of Chaco, stated that Bolivians had seized four ports, three of which were later recaptured by Paraguayan troops. The commander said that six Paraguayan soldiers had been killed, as well as two Bolivian officers, many Bolivian soldiers and untrained Indians.

The ministry of war also announced in an official bulletin that a Bolivian airplane had dropped four bombs while flying over Bahia Negra, none of which exploded. Bahia Negra is in the disputed territory.

BOLIVIAN ATTACK FORCES

The commander of the Paraguayan forces in the Chaco said that the Bolivians had attacked Forts Mariscal Lopez, Valois, Rivarola, and General Genes. The Paraguayans had resisted for eight hours although the attacking forces stated to be superior in the point of numbers. The commander added that the Bolivians finally were repulsed.

The ministry of war on its announcement gave this version of the fighting at Fort Boqueron:

"A large force of Bolivians attacked our Fort Mariscal Lopez (Fort Boqueron) which was defended by only 30 men under the command of Lieut. Eusebio Padin. In view of the superior training of the enemy, after an energetic resistance, the Paraguayans retired."

Word of the attack on the ports started a tremendous demonstration of patriotism in the capital. Citizens paraded in the palace, headed by brass bands. There they cheered President Guggiari and the country. Many women marched in the parades, some wearing dresses adorned with the national colors—red, white and blue.

Hundreds of men, including cadets from the military academy, volunteered their services before the mobilization order was issued. They asked to be sent immediately to the scene of hostilities. Political parties united in the face of the crisis and organized automobile caravans which drove about the city urging all to volunteer their services to the government.

LEAGUE TO ACT

Laguano.—(AP)—If either Bolivia or Paraguay, formally declares war, a special session of the council of the league of nations will be convoked at Paris by Foreign Minister Briand as president of the council.

M. Briand made this announcement to newspapermen Monday, shortly after sending new cablegrams to both the disputants, insisting upon the dangers to peace which result from contact between the military forces and the Foreign Ministers.

He urged Bolivia and Paraguay to avoid incidents which might compromise the specific settlement of their dispute.

Special advices received during the night from league representatives in period of natural sleep that the king had in the late hours of Sunday night, was doubtless a valuable contributory factor.

The morning bulletin said: "The king had a fair night with some natural sleep towards morning. The slight improvement in his majesty's condition noted yesterday, continues."

It was noted that Monday for the first time the bulletin mentioned "natural" sleep in reporting developments in the king's case, although there had been frequent mention of how well or ill his majesty slept. This led to the supposition that much of the sleep that he had previously been reported as having, might have been artificially induced. The wording in which the bulletins are couched is so carefully chosen as to lend strength to this supposition.

NO IMMEDIATE RESULT

Treatment with ultra-violet rays began Sunday. It was pointed out that it would have no immediate appreciable effect. The belief was encouraged, however, that favorable results would not be long in manifesting themselves. It was thought that improvement would be noticeable after three or four applications.

The action of therapy or ultra-violet ray treatment has had remarkable successes in hospitals in recent years but its use in the king's case is the most striking recognition it has yet received in England.

The first application would probably be for not more than a half a minute. Monday's exposure of the back and chest of the king to the rays was likely to be a minute and the periods would be increased from day to day.

Medical experts in the morning papers explained in detail the method of application and the effects sought from the treatment. It was assumed that a mercury vapor lamp was employed, the apparatus being connected with the

$131,000 PUT IN CHRISTMAS CLUBS BY 2,550 MEMBERS

Majority of Individual Checks Have Been Mailed by Banks

Approximately $131,000 was deposited by 2,550 members of Christmas Savings Clubs in the four local banks during the past year, according to local bankers who report that most of the individual checks have been mailed to members for Christmas shopping purposes or other needs. The money is accumulated during the year by weekly or monthly payments, and the plan is becoming more popular every year, bankers report, although the total amount of money saved this year was $3,000 less than 1927.

In 1924, $94,500 was paid to 1,125 depositors, and in 1925 that amount had increased to $100,000 with about 1,200 depositors. In 1926, 1,250 depositors saved approximately $123,000. An average of $51.40 has been paid every person who looked forward to this year's Christmas shopping appropriation, or had intentions of using the money for other purposes.

With the increasing popularity of the clubs comes change in the purposes for investing in the club. When the plan was originated about 15 years ago people joined the club to have money to spend for Christmas. Today such a purpose is true with only about half of the investors. The others join the clubs with the intent of saving and although they have the option of drawing out their money at the end of the year they either deposit it directly or buy bonds.

The aim of the bank in sponsoring a club is to encourage thrift, and the plan is accomplishing its purpose. It has proved to lighten the burden of the head of the family at the beginning of a new year when expenses pile up. Many use the savings club money for paying taxes, buying fuel, and many other purposes. The total amounts received at the end of 50 weeks run from $12.50, plus interest, to $500, according to bankers. The popular account at all the banks is the $2 weekly plan which accumulates $100 at the end of the year. The $1 a week club which accumulates $50 at Christmas time also is popular.

NINE BUILDING PERMITS ISSUED SINCE DEC. 1

The ninth building permit this month was issued Saturday morning by John N. Welland, building inspector. It was to A. J. Hantschel and permits him to build a one car garage at 505 E. Harrison-st at a cost of $150. Building activities in Appleton are almost at a standstill, according to reports issued during the last 15 days. The largest project undertaken so far has been a house being constructed by Earl F. Miller, Inc.

WORK PROGRESSES ON FIELD HOUSE

Believe New University Building Will Be Ready by Next Fall

Madison—(AP)—Step by step, Wisconsin's $576,000 proposed field house is becoming a reality and George Little, athletic director, believes that the structure will be ready for occupancy by next fall. When finished, the building, which will be the university's home for indoor intercollegiate sports, will seat 12,000 spectators for basketball games.

With ratification of the financial scheme by the university board of regents and the passage of the general erection scheme, Mr. Little now is waiting for completion of the working drawings of Arthur Peabody, state architect, who is designating the building. The plans are to be ready for presentation to the regents group at its January meeting. If the plans as finally submitted by Mr. Peabody are passed, the board of regents then will advertise for bids, and contract will be let. Mr. Little says plans for this are being moved so that the bids will have been accepted and the contractor named in time to begin work when the spring thaw comes.

A steam shovel was moved to the site recently and extensive ground tests were made in order to determine the strength and type of foundation that will be necessary for the building. According to Mr. Little, excavation will be 14 feet deep.

The field house, which is to be built at the south, or open end of camp stadium, will house basketball and indoor track. The building will be primarily a sports hall, locker accommodations being established under the stadium. It will fit in the open end of the stadium and seats will be built along the north wall. Additional seats will raise the stadium's capacity to nearly 45,000.

In order to keep from sidetracking intramural sports in which he is interested, Director Little has planned a sports hall to be built on an intramural field along Lake Mendota near the men's dormitories. This structure will house basketball, basketball courts, a swimming pool, wrestling and boxing rooms and other conveniences for extensive indoor intramural program.

DOG LICENSES AREN'T DUE UNTIL TAX TIME

If there is anyone in Appleton especially interested in paying dog license taxes they should desist, at least for the time being. Dog licenses do not come due until the end of the year, according to Fred Bachman, city treasurer, or until the usual tax paying time. Therefore the city treasurer's office isn't much interested in the collections until after Jan. 1.

Glorious Health Again His After Long Suffering

"If Anybody Ought to Be Grateful to Sargon It's Me", Says Gentilla.

"To enjoy glorious health after five years of suffering is indeed a blessing." Time after time this statement is made by people who found in Sargon the long sought means of overcoming ill health. Time after time those who now enjoy the blessings of perfect health through the use of Sargon pay tribute to its wonderful powers.

There are many reasons why Sargon has succeeded where other medicines and treatments have failed. Why Sargon triumphs in cases that heretofore have defied all attempts for relief. Sargon has built a remarkable record—not on words, but through deeds. It comes backed by a marvelous record of success. Countless numbers of cases where Sargon has produced amazing results can be cited. Take for instance that of Mr. August Gentilla, 1126 30th St., Milwaukee. Mr. Gentilla is well known in Milwaukee where he has been a City employee for the past fifteen years. He is now City Foreman of the Maitland Airport Improvement.

"If there is anybody on earth who ought to feel grateful to Sargon it's me: it's just wonderful what this medicine has done for me."

"For five years I suffered from stomach trouble, and here of late I have been in a dreadfully rundown condition. I had pains all the time. I lost my old-time strength and energy." "After taking six bottles of Sargon I am like a brand new man; the indigestion, gas, constipation and other troubles have been overcome. I never have a headache now. My old-time strength and energy have come back to me, and I'm in better shape in every way. Others in my family are also taking Sargon with splendid results. I have made up my mind never to be without this wonderful medicine in my house."

"I want to also say that Sargon Soft Mass Pills are the finest laxative I have ever found. There's nothing about them to make you sick or upset you in the least, yet they do their work thoroughly."

Sargon may be obtained in Appleton from Voigt's Drug Store.

MICHIGAN FISHERS OUTRANK BADGERS

Wisconsin Fishermen Caught 12,410,466 Pounds in Lakes in 1927

BY BASCOM N. TIMMONS
Washington, D. C.—Only Michigan outranked Wisconsin in the value of fish caught in the Great Lakes during 1927, according to the report of the Fisheries Bureau of the Department of Commerce made public Monday. During the year 12,410,466 pounds of fish valued at $1,127,015 were taken by 1,062 fishermen of the state.

Although Lake Erie furnished the largest catch of all the lakes, the catch of Lake Michigan brought the largest price on the markets. The total value of the Lake Michigan yield was $2,354,837 for 23,680,884 pounds of fish, while 23,796,000 pounds taken from Lake Erie only brought $1,831,000. The highest value of the catch in Lake Michigan for practically the same quantity of fish as in Lake Erie was due mainly to the large catch of lake trout, which commands a relatively high price.

The total catch of the lake fisheries for 1927 was slightly over 81,300,000 pounds valued at $6,800,000. This was eight per cent higher than the 1926 yield. Of this Michigan contributed the largest amount, followed by Wisconsin, Ohio, Minnesota, Pennsylvania, New York, Indiana and Illinois.

The lake trout catch of 10,492,359 pounds was the most valuable, totaling $1,720,542. Whitefish was next with a catch of 5,462,328 pounds bringing $1,010,834. Although the lake herring yield was the largest from the point of quantity, 22,177,127 pounds were only valued at $763,330. Other important specials taken were chubs, 6,616,236 pounds valued at $596,808; blue pike, 7,323,532 pounds valued at $569,571, and yellow pike 3,025,336 pounds valued at $540,091. The catch of ciscoes in Lake Erie, which formerly ranked as one of the most important species, amounted to only 2,350,239 pounds valued at $289,097.

During the early part of the week the stores have agreed to close as usual at 5:30 sharp. On Monday, Dec. 24, they will remain open an extra half hour only, until 6 o'clock, it is said.

THE BOULDER DAM BILL

The senate has passed the Boulder Dam bill by a vote of 64 to 11. It differs in form from that passed by the house and the measure, therefore, goes to conference. The main difference is that the senate bill carries an appropriation of $165,000,000 against $125,000,000 in the house bill, and that the latter makes it mandatory upon the government to build the power plant.

This legislation has been the subject of much controversy throughout its long career in congress. Many things are involved in the project, including flood control, ship canal, irrigation, water supply to municipalities, and power. Whether the benefits will justify the expenditure required no layman can venture an opinion. It probably is a conservative opinion, however, to say that private capital could never have been induced to engage in the undertaking. It is, of course, a legitimate public work, the main question being whether the states and localities interested ought not to finance it rather than the federal government. One cannot decide this point on mere congressional judgment, for Boulder Dam is so steeped in politics and has been traded in so heavily on the floor and in the lobbies of congress that the vote on its passage is no criterion of its merits. It is essentially a political measure. From a distance it looks like an unjustified raid on the federal treasury for the consummation of an enterprise, sectional and local in scope.

Efforts to commit the government to the development and operation of a power plant have failed, if for no other reason than because of the certainty of a presidential veto. If the senate view prevails the government will have the privilege of building and leasing a power plant as well as leasing rights of construction. While we do not believe the president entertains a particularly friendly attitude toward the Boulder Dam project, it is not unlikely that he may sign it.

Certain of the western senators upon whom this and the succeeding administration depend considerably for political support are ardent advocates of this legislation. It seems a strange commentary, however, on the ways of government that this southwestern dam scheme, with its benefits at least local and their value based on a cost not very well determined, should be authorized while a project of national importance like the St. Lawrence seaway, which should have been put through years ago, lags by the roadside.

THE "EMPIRE" OF THE UNITED STATES

A Nova Scotia college professor the other day said a significant thing about the service of the United States to the British dominions. Every one of them, he declared, had profited by, adopting our double ideal—freedom to express the personality, plus equality of opportunity.

Equality, today as in 1776, is still the soundest principle on which to found prosperity, extend industry, settle new country, encourage inventive genius. The gravest handicap to progress in Britain proper is that despite the legislative forms of democracy, what Viscount Lascelles recently called "the snobbery one meets in Great Britain"—upheld by centuries of touching the forelock—remains as a heavy bar to ambition.

The British dominions have won away from this. A man is a man, and doesn't have to bolster his conviction of that fact by quoting Bobby Burns, if he lives in such dominions as Canada, Newfoundland, Australia and New Zealand. This advantage the dominions owe to the American ideals they have adopted in clear preference to those of the mother country. When it is considered how the American spirit of democracy has permeated not only our own territories and most of the new world to which Herbert Hoover is now missionarying, but even the far flung British empire, it seems possible that the United States has a spiritual empire and leadership greater than that of any other nation.

When a noted Nova Scotian frankly acknowledges this debt, declaring the American principle of equality to be "a very cornerstone of our civilization," he may fairly draw our attention also to the responsibilities that go with it. Americans need to be reminded that bureaucracy can destroy equality and freedom as surely as monarchy, and that we are constantly slipping into it. An empire easily can mold at the heart. In fact, they usually have.

WHY REVIVE IT?

Captain Eddie Rickenbacker, chairman of the contest board of the American Automobile association, complains that auto racing is in the doldrums, has lost the support of public interest, and requires a new type of racing car to restore popularity.

What probably is at the bottom of this drop in public interest is the fact that auto racing is no longer of vital importance in setting speed records, determining the actual value of stock cars, or making really useful developments. Manufacturers have their own testing grounds and tracks where they can apply far more gruelling and scientific tests than any single race. Speed records nowadays are made against time on beach tracks, and by special cars made for speeds no one is interested in attaining, or even half attaining, except as a professional stunt.

The airplane capable of traveling three hundred miles an hour is an airplane of potential usefulness and practical superiority. All air roads are alike. The automobile which can travel even two hundred miles an hour is simply a useless pest on any highway. It must have a special track, without a stone in its way. The folly and impracticability of speed car building to exceed the stock speeds of today have impressed the public. So have the hip-prodroming and faking that have crept into much auto racing. Captain Eddie Rickenbacker is a former racer and flyer. He may hate to see the daredevil game of his youth disappear. But the public is losing interest in this dangerous, and useless sport for perfectly normal reasons which do credit to its intelligence.

PEACE IN NICARAGUA

The election is over in Nicaragua. The dove of peace broods over that country. Rival statesmen shake hands. All profess gratitude to Uncle Sam. The Liberal party, now in power, asks that, as our marines leave Nicaragua, at least 1,000 be retained to insure order and train the native national guard.

Any party in power likes American protection against possible revolt. That and other considerations may keep an American force there. Mr. Hoover, however, may naturally be wondering whether it would not be well to have some of Nicaragua's other neighbors share that responsibility with Uncle Sam.

Several years ago there was considerable talk of the "A. B. C. Powers," Argentina, Brazil and Chile, helping the United States in settling inter-American problems, upholding the Monroe doctrine and policing small, backward countries that require it. There may be more of such talk as the goodwill voyage continues.

SHIPOLOADS OF SKULL CRACKERS

Most of us realize pretty well that law-observance is not one of our nation's leading virtues, and that the police, accordingly, are kept pretty busy; but did you ever know that the wood out of which policemen's clubs are made comes into the country in full shiploads?

Well, it does. The docks of the Bush Terminal, in Brooklyn, receive ship after ship from the West Indies, loaded with lignum vitae—the hardest, heaviest wood obtainable—which is shipped from there to the factories where nightsticks are made.

This wood is so heavy it will not float in water. It takes a fine polish, and so tough that it can make an impression on the thickest skull of the toughest criminal in the country.

And the country's cops are so busy that it comes in by the shipload!

POST-TONIC

The Remedy is Worse Than the Malady

THE FLAPPER SOCKS 'EM BOTH
I SEE BY YOUR COLUMN that Harold the Seer is appealing to me for help in his mourning of that lost $4.90 that a member of my six separated from him via the epiglottis route. "Us girls must together stoke him." But when one of our tribe gets us in wrong I don't think the rest of us are going to stand by and see our prospects of hand-outs furnished by male "come-ons" endangered.

It's just like a male to squawk when he gets stung. This must be Harold's first experience, otherwise he would keep his trap shut and thereafter walk around the block when he sees this particular voracious Jane on the up and coming. Harold can console himself to the end that he need not worry about that particular Jane. If she had any designs on him she would not have quered her future prospects by thus pulling his nether extremity. I hope that Jane by reason of her rapacity will swell up and bust in the event she does not do that, she will get so fat that no Guy will ever give her a second look, except to remark that she "shuffles a weighty ankle." I don't see why a girl should do that, do you?

I asked my father how any girl could eat that much and he said, "They probably didn't mention the drinks that went on the bill, that $3.00 of that will was probably for a pint of gin and that they only ate $1.90 and that they are afraid to mention the other in print." My mother says that any girl that eats like that will get a "German Goitre" and even tho it is easier for a girl to hide such an Aldermanic Front, it's better to stick to crackers, glass of water and a tooth pick until you get your "Meal Ticket" safely secured and tied down with a wedding ceremony, before you get careless with too much grub even though you like to eat. So I'll stand back of Harold to the extent that I concede he was imposed upon. It's too bad that we will be deprived of a possible hand-out by the abuse handed him by one of our tribe. Burnie, Burnie, Harold. You got your money and if you are the Seer you seem to "He who runs may read" and you're read enough enough. Try some one with more sense. "FLAPPER."

Coming down town the other morning a man was accosted by a friend who wanted to know what had happened that he had his hand all tied up.

"My hand isn't tied up," he replied, "that's my wife's dress I'm taking to the cleaner."

"Mr. Smith," said a lady at a church festival, "won't you buy a bouquet to present to the lady you love?"

"That wouldn't be right," said Mr. Smith, "I'm a married man."

He had just signed "A. Hogg" in the hotel register.

"Why don't you sign your full name?" inquired the pretty and sympathetic clerk.

"My first name's 'Adam'," grunted the guest.

It's getting so now that it's a race between the airships and automobiles as to which can kill the most humans on Sundays.

Minister: "I am very sorry to hear of your misfortune. I should have thought that to drown himself would be the last thing your husband would do."

Mrs. Flatbush: "It was."

A guest in a hotel complained to the manager: "Your restaurant is conducted in a very rotten way. At lunch today I found a hair in the ice cream, a hair in the honey, and a hair in the apple sauce."

"Well, you see," the manager explained, "the hair in the ice cream came from the shaving of the ice. The hair in the honey came from the comb. But I can't for the life of me understand about the hair in the apple sauce, for I bought those apples myself and they were all Baldwins."

Jenny (in department store): "Oh look at the pretty bathing suit."

Evelyn: "Where? I don't see it."

Jenny: "Oh, right over there behind that price tag."

Salesman: "I'd like to speak to the master of the house."

Maid: "Sorry, but I've just got him to sleep and put him in the crib."

Mother (to child): "And now Santa Claus has begun his long flight from the north."

Child: "How many sandwiches did he take?"

REJUVENATION IS THE BUNK, BUT DESOLERIZATION IS TREATMENT WE ALL NEED

Looking at life through the eyes of the biologist and in the light of science, one sees that man is a combustion apparatus for the burning and transmutation of inert materials into living protoplasm with the production of heat and energy. Man is a machine whose work is manifested as the vital functions of nutrition and metabolism, motility, irritability and reproduction. Reproduction, the perpetuation of species, is the great object of human life, and all other functions are of secondary importance. Still speaking biologically, scientifically, we know that when reproduction has been accomplished man begins to die, or more accurately, man's decline begins just as soon as his young are reared to a state of independence which enables them to take care of themselves.

There is nothing cold or pessimistic about this view of human life, in my opinion. On the contrary, it is an optimistic and quite cheerful conception. It does seem to fit in pretty well with the Oslor hoax, but remember, now, we are speaking of man as a mere machine, and as a mechanical contraption man surely does begin to slow down and grow a bit wobbly around the age of fifty years. Everybody, old or young, male or female knows that. But there is still a comforting bit of knowledge about this biological machine which I fear too many employers have failed to grasp, and that is what I shall now explain.

Dr. Oslor was misrepresented about the disposal of old folks. He merely pointed out that the greater part of the work of the world has been done by people before middle age. This is a pretty sound observation. Then he facetiously quoted from a novel the suggestion that all the old parties at 60 ought to be chloroformed. This humorous allusion the newspapers played up as Dr. Oslor's own serious idea. That sort of Dr. Oslor himself was a good enough example of the mental fit of men in past middle age. There was nothing in his philosophy, and there is nothing in science today, to indicate that a man's mental efficiency declines when his physical efficiency begins to slow up. On the contrary, and here's the bit of absolutely scientific and undebatable knowledge I promised, we know that whereas the physical fitness of a normal man begins to decline at 50 or thereabouts, his mental fitness persists at the highest level until he reaches 65 years of age.

If you employ a man to do muscular work for you, perhaps you will not get as much out of him after 45 as you did for twenty years before. But if you hire him to use his brains for you, you would make a grave mistake to shove him before 65 if he is a normal, ordinary, average man. That's straight common sense, and I challenge any self-made "character analyst" or "psychological expert" or any other "popbail" of the world of hokum to stop me if I am wrong. Not that I doubt for a moment that there are a lot of saps in business who accept the quackish advice of these alleged "efficiency experts" too readily. My sole contention is that although your vigorous youth may beat the old man in a race or lay bricks all around him, still if you want a problem worked out or a staggering line of figures added accurately or a bit of sound judgment in a difficult situation, you will be wise to take it to the old man. He knows how and why.

Thinking involves little if any metabolism, transformation or use of energy. Maybe this explains why the old man's brains still function perfectly long after his brawn has softened.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
It Is Possible
Is it possible for a person to give board and lodging to a tapeworm without being aware of it? For a year or more I . . . (R. F.)

ANS—Yes, and per contra or on the other hand nose out of ten persons who imagine they have tapeworm haven't.

Sugar

Family doctor found sugar in urine, prescribed diet, ten days later no sugar present. He went off to hospital and by his suggestion I went to another doctor for analysis. This one allowed sweet potatoes in diet, and found sugar present. Potatoes deleted, sugar disappeared. First doctor advised exclusive diet from diet one year no matter what analysis shows. Second considers the affair a "spill over" and leaves diet unrestricted. Both reputable physicians. Which shall I follow?

ANS—Follow your present physician's advice until your own physician returns. Get Dr. Dudley's "Book for Use Diabetics," from the publisher E. B. Miles, South Lancaster, Mass., if you want twelve shillings' worth of sound advice.

No Serum For Cri

Do you think the cri serum is worth taking? Has it been found effective to prevent bad attacks of cri, in one who suffers repeatedly each winter?—(Mrs. B. R. L.)

ANS—As there is no specificity about the various infectious groups under the title of "cri," or "colic" if you prefer, we can hardly expect a serum to give satisfactory results. Some physicians who have used shotgun or polyvalent stock bacterins or "bacterial vaccines" in the attempt to immunize groups of industrial employees, seem to think the method has some value. Others with similar experience deny that it is worth while. Personally, I should have some faith in a specific bacterin in prepared from my own particular cri germs, were I the patient, but I have none at all in this blind mass method. In the present state of knowledge it is impossible to trust a group of persons that way. It is difficult enough to accomplish anything definite for a single patient whose condition one has studied carefully.

How to Open Bedroom Window
Please tell me how to open my bedroom window at night so the breeze won't blow directly on me. The window is a fenestra and swings out.—(J. J. C.)

ANS—Swing her out, and block or brace her open for the night, then dive into the feathers. The wider the opening and the more air, the colder, and moisture, the better, provided you can keep comfortable and pound your ear all through the night. Warmer sleeping comfort not less air.

A BYSTANDER IN WASHINGTON

BY KIRKE L. SIMPSON

Washington—The Bystander learns that war heroes whose names and pictures may be used for advertising this or that commodity are finding their fame is not entirely their own to use as they please. Legality, of course, that may be the case so far as the writer knows.

Whether there is any law or regulation to prevent a retired regular army officer, say, for example, a general, who had achieved fame in France commanding an army or a corps or a battle division of historic victories, from contracting for the use of his name in advertising matter is at least doubtful. There are citizens, however, who have been quick to challenge the good taste of such use of war fame.

Letters of protest reached the War Department at intervals. So far as this writer knows, the departmental authorities have never looked into the legal aspects of the matter. They have been content to hand the protests up and transmit them to the officer involved for his information and without comment.

Gossip has it that in one case the picture of such an officer, and a high ranker at that, appeared in colorful magazine advertising of a particular brand of smokes. And the funny part about it is that brother officers of long service with him insist that particular soldier never used tobacco in any form, eatin' or smokin'.

CLEAN POLITICS

When Louis Ludlow, representative-elect from the Seventh Indiana, got back to add a few months to his quarter century in the press gallery before he takes office, his press colleague and fellow Hoosier, "Christy" Harte, eight years secretary to Vice President Marshall, greeted him with serious mien.

"Your victory, Louie," he said, "was due, I am sure, to the forthright position you took on the burning issues of the campaign."

"Think so, Mark?" said Louie, certain something was coming, but not what.

"Yes, I read one of your campaign speeches clear through."

D. R. J. A. HOLMES counseled parents to stress goodness in training children in an address Sunday afternoon at the meeting of John F. Rose chapter, Order of DeMolay at Masonic temple. TRAINMEN'S MEETING

W. W. Fradenburg, yardmaster of the Chicago and Northwestern railroad company attended a meeting of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen at the Odd Fellows hall, Fond du Lac, Sunday afternoon. Approximately 250 persons were present but it was necessary to cut the representation down to 40 officers and organization leaders because of an order prohibiting the congregation of more than 40 people in one room, following an influenza epidemic at Fond du Lac, according to Mr. Fradenburg.

Original plans for the meeting called for election of officers, but it was impossible to do so because of the order, and the election was postponed until a later meeting. Reports of officers were read, and regular business was transacted.

BEAUTY HINTS

HINTS FOR A MOTHER'S FIRST AID PROBLEM

BY OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

All children get hurt in one way or another many times over. Don't get nervous, mother, and lose your head. Children can stand a lot of bumping and bruising. But cuts need a little more than kissing. In themselves they may not amount to much but wherever the skin is broken steps should be taken instantly to prevent blood poisoning. You never can tell what germs are hanging around on grubby little hands or knees ready to jump into the opening and cause damage. Don't wash a wound and then put on the antiseptic afterward. Reverse it. Put tincture of iodine on right away and wash it out later. The other way you are likely to wash dirt and germs into the cut. The water you use on a cut or wound should be boiled and cooled if possible.

In big cuts it is still more necessary to keep them free of germs. Cut away all clothing near the wound. Don't handle the wound until your own hands are thoroughly scrubbed and dipped in some antiseptic solution. But first, if the bleeding is bad, try to control it by pressing on the flesh around the wound.

DO NOT HANDLE WOUND

The wound should be handled as little as possible. The best thing is to get a doctor at once. But if he is not available, the treatment of iodine and sterilized water may be followed. Be very careful about the kind of a pad or bandage you put over it. The soft cotton cloth or gauze should be boiled and quickly dried before it touches the wound. Don't allow it to touch anything after the boiling. Even the scissors should be scrubbed. Cleanliness and sterilization are absolutely necessary. Watch a wound if you are attending to it yourself—even a small one. If there is any sign of pain near it, or red streaks, or pus, when enough time has been allowed for reasonable healing to begin, don't waste a second. Get a doctor at once. Blood poisoning is the one thing you can't afford to take a chance on.

There are excellent balms for burns but a good substitute is a solution of "plaster" of baking soda, or the same of boracic acid, applied right on the burn.

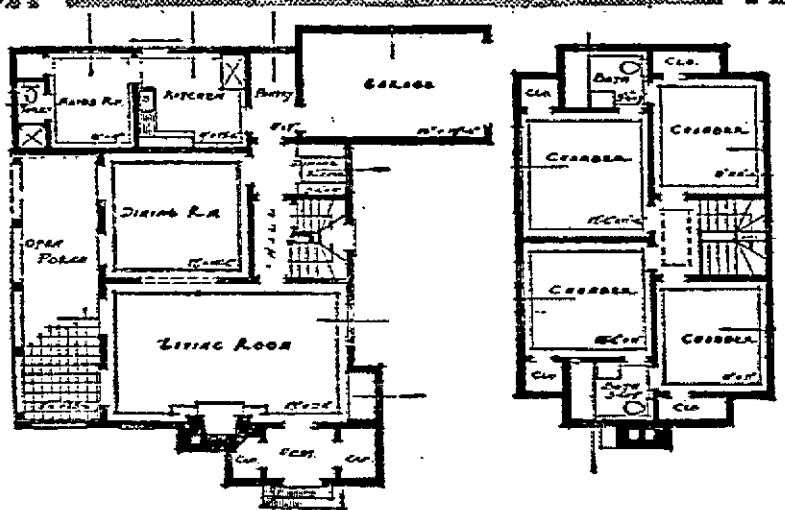

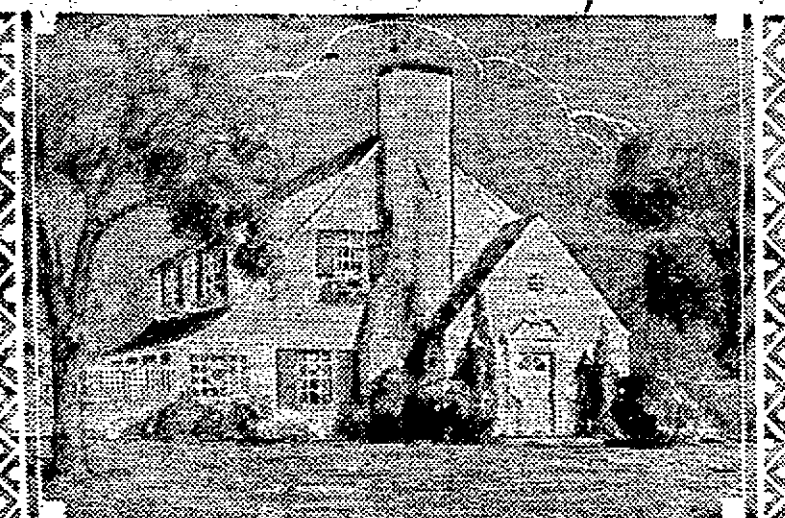

All dressings must be looked after and changed daily. And the same cleanliness must be observed at each dressing for both cuts and burns. In severe bruises, cloths wrung out of hot or cold water may be applied, or cracked-ice wrapped in a cloth.

Alcohol, arnica, or witch hazel, diluted, are very comforting. If the skin is broken treat it as a cut.

Keep a pan on the back of the stove to hold leftover scraps of bread and crumbs. The bread will dry and be crushed with little effort and used in recipes calling for crumbs. Leftover toast is especially desirable as it possesses a good flavor.

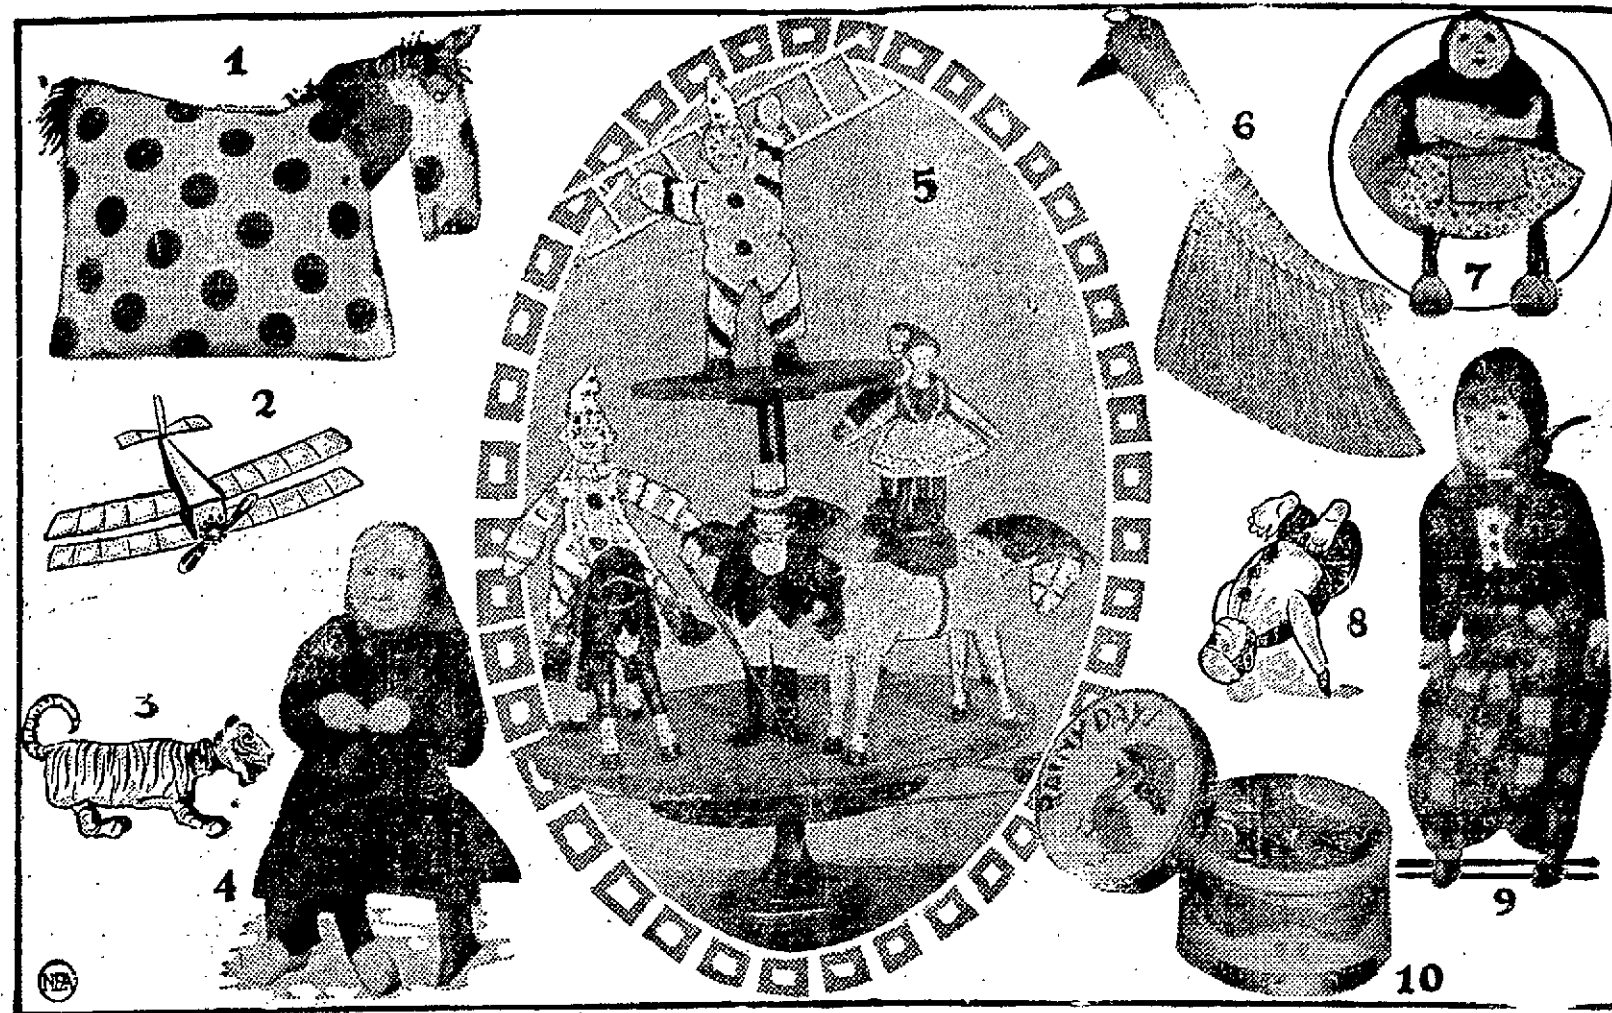

Sheet iron baking sheets are better than aluminum for baking cookies as they are liable to stick to the aluminum sheets.

DUTCH COLONIAL

THE simplicity and beauty of the lines of this Dutch Colonial house will endear it to the hearts of genuine folk who appreciate genuine worth and unaffectedness. Its quaint, snug, homelike appearance heightens its appeal. The house is built of white clapboards, with shingle roof, wooden shutters and red brick chimney. The shutters are painted an attractive green. The doorway is lovely, a paneled one with peck lights. All of the windows are small Dutch paneled ones. Entering the vestibule one finds two handy coat closets. The living room is well-balanced, with three exposures and an open fireplace for cheerfulness. French doors lead onto the open porch. A little hall lets off the living room, connecting the dining room. This is an inside room and lighted by the open doors leading to the porch and those into the living room. Beyond the hall is the pantry, kitchen, maid's room and bathroom. Accented by a red brick fireplace, the kitchen leads from the kitchen to the garage. For the kitchen a service entrance is provided at the rear, leading to a service porch. This porch is screened by shrubbery and bushes and enclosed by an artistic fence built entirely of wood that it is hidden from the rest of the house. Four bedrooms and two baths occupy the second story. Each bedroom has two windows, all good sized. Also there is a cedar closet in each room. This house is built on true Colonial lines and kept true to form should be papered in the Colonial fashion. It is hard, anyway, to find paper more attractive or homelike than this type. It is an entirely wooden house, built for comfort, charm, convenience and durability. No General Rules For Gifts For Kiddies; Some Guiding Principles In Selecting Toys

Old Saint Nick packs many new and novel toys this season, such as (1) a calico horse pillow that is likely to encourage Buddy to take his nap without protest; (2) a mechanical airplane flies to a height of 12 feet when wound (3) an irate tiger, when properly goaded, howls and stages a fine fight with a lion, a hippopotamus or any other jungle animal one chooses; (4) a little old Breton peasant woman is an exact replica of a real one, even to facial expression; (5) a two-string circus proceeds with dispatch when the motor to which it is attached is started; (6) a penguin, brush both a toy and a utility gift; (7) a whole family of wishbone dolls show how little girls dress in European countries; (8) a mechanical monkey stands on his head, runs up a string and altogether delights the very young; (9) a little boy doll from Southern France is colorful and exotically charming when he talks; (10) a rainy day box includes moulding wax, bodkin and beads, crayons, a puzzle or two and other things to occupy the mind when the weather makes a tot stay indoors.

BY JULIA BLANSHARD

NEW YORK — Parents never have had such a wide choice in the Christmas gifts for the children as this year affords.

Old Santa's pack includes gifts ranging from small cost to those that can be had for thousands of dollars. And old Saint Nick leaves it entirely up to the parents whether they are old-fashioned and pick the things they used to enjoy when they were children or whether they go extremely modern and take nothing that does not belong to this motor age.

The decision is, in the last analysis, of the family exchequer. But, after budgeting that, there are certain things that Father and Mother might consider.

First, for the growing child, it is usually much better to get one or two durable toys, things whose workmanship commands his respect, than a lot of gee-gaws that break at the slightest touch.

TOY EXPERT ADVISES

Second, there is a real psychology of toys. Many stores have experts to advise. If a child is nervous, lacks concentration, shows an inclination to start but never finish things, is irritable at toys that fret him, parents can get pointers from the expert about how certain toys will correct these defects.

Third, there is a lot to be learned from toys. If they can be linked up with the children's school work, like dolls, animals or other expressions of countries they are studying about, or if they express an urge in a child, as constructing bridges or painting pictures might, so much the better.

Little children, as a rule, like big playthings. Blocks that give them exercise to life, dolls, dogs and other toys that approach their own size, big-sized picture books and mechanical things that Father can run for them. They also love things that float in the tub while they bathe, such as ducks that quack, fish that wiggle, and so on. Rag dolls, such as a calico horse, are good too. Kindergarten, whether boys, or girls, like about the same thing. They love things that give them physical exercise, such as bicycles, tricycles, scooters, wagons to pull around, wagons made like autos, and so on.

For girls of all ages the market is flooded with dolls. Aviatix dolls sound the modern note. More interesting are dolls that are imported from abroad, authentic replicas of the peasant folk of France and other countries. These teach the children much. There are dolls this year that jazz, dolls that spout Mother Goose rhymes, dolls all ages, color, or size. And household equipment for doll playing that ranges from a little stove with pots and pans to a skyscraper doll house, fully equipped, even with doll wardrobe trunks and frigidaire.

If one can afford them, there are wondrous mechanical things that amuse and educate both boys and girls, such as electric motors that run everything from a three-ring circus to trains with engine, diner, pullmans and so on, airplanes that fly, toy motor boats that speed, fire engines that tear along.

Construction sets are not so expensive and also are instructive, such as bridges, ferris wheels, sky scrapers and one set will often build many things. Games are an excellent choice for they make the home a neighborhood center for children. Ping pong, archery sets, chess, shooting galleries, and sand boxes, boxes of multi-colored modeling clay. Also, if one has a basement or attic, a few such things as a trapeze, slide or quoits will make a fine playroom of unused space.

REAL TOOL CHESTS Tool chests should be as fine as one can afford for unless they really enable Sonny or Sister to make things they are a farce. A set of auto tools may teach the young things they will need later when no

It is impossible to generalize about gifts for children. Age, temperament and the kind of things a child is used to all must be considered. That is why choosing the Christmas toys is the most responsible job as well as the most enjoyable.

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

BREAKFAST — Grapes, cereal, cream, poached eggs and spinach on toast, extra toast, milk, coffee.

LUNCHEON — Browned rice, lettuce sandwiches, apple sauce, ginger nuts, milk, tea.

DINNER — Round steak smothered with onions, mashed potatoes, endive with French dressing, raisin puff pudding, milk, coffee.

Children usually like sandwiches better than plain bread and butter and find them much easier to eat. If the time is short and the butter creamed it isn't much of a task to make sandwiches for the noon meal.

BROWNED RICE

One sweet green pepper, 1 onion, 4 tablespoons butter, 1 quart can tomatoes, 1 cup water, 1 teaspoon salt, 1-4 teaspoon cloves, 1-2 teaspoon cinnamon, 1-3 teaspoon pepper, 2 tablespoons bacon fat, 1 cup washed rice.

Remove seeds and pith from pepper and mince as fine as possible. Peel and mince onion. Melt butter in a large spider or shallow sauce pan, add prepared onion and pepper and rice well washed and dried. Stir until well mixed and each grain of rice is coated with butter. Cook until mixture is a golden brown. Rub tomatoes through a coarse sieve to remove seeds. Add water, sifted tomatoes, salt, spices and bacon fat to rice mixture. Cook slowly and uncovered until mixture begins to thicken. Then cover and cook in a slow oven until mixture is thick. Serve very hot on a deep platter.

Household Hints

CREAM TOMATOES

Cream tomato soup will not curdle if you put a pinch of salt in the tomatoes, bring both the milk and the tomatoes to the boil, bring point separately, mix the tomatoes into the milk and heat thoroughly.

BAT CLEANING

Women can keep their felt hats immaculate if they brush them daily and once a week go over them with a cloth dipped in some good cleaning fluid. Brush the nap carefully when dry.

TIRED FEET

It is tremendously refreshing after a hard day on one's feet to soak them in hot bran and soda water, dry and rub with alcohol.

TENDER FEET

Tender feet can be toughened somewhat by giving a hot ammonia bath every night, rubbing afterwards with vasoline and in the morning washing with cold water.

DECORATIVE CANDLES

Fancy candles can be cleaned without losing their luster by dusting with a cloth dampened in alcohol.

POPCORN SALAD

Fruit salad takes on novelty when crushed popcorn is sprinkled over the top instead of nuts.

One last remnant of coherent thought was left to Crystal: "I haven't said 'yes.' But I can't help it if he thinks I will." Then she did not think for a long while, for Pablo's arms were so thrillingly tight about her, Pablo's adoring, possessive lips continually coming back to claim hers.

At last the Mexican boy threw back his head triumphantly. "My mother — you will love her, beloved. She is married now — oh, very nice, very fine man. She no marry my father, as I tell you, My father very splendid Spanish, gentlemen from Seville. He already have lady-wife in Spain. But my mother very fine Mexican woman, very good mother."

"Crystal had a sudden clairvoyant picture of herself being greeted by a fat, dark-brown Mexican woman, who immediately afterwards plied her with queer foods — tortillas, enchiladas, chile con carne, strange dishes of which Pablo had told her longingly.

"Pablo," she asked at last, jealously, "have you ever loved another girl? Isn't there perhaps a little muchacha in Mexico City?"

To her consternation, for she had asked the question almost idly, for lovely reassurance, the boy's arms went a little lax.

"There is another girl! You have got a sweetheart in Mexico!" Crystal cried, trying to draw out of his arms.

"No, no!" Pablo protested just a little too late. "Pablo never love other girl like his diamante!"

"Who is she?" Crystal demanded, knowing at last the full agony of jealousy. She forgot, for the moment that she could not marry Pablo.

"My mother wish me to marry little Mexican girl — Lucita Durango," Pablo admitted almost sullenly. "But when she see you, my mother very happy. Pablo must marriage with high-born lady from Estados Unidos. My mother will love."

Curiously, considering that she had been so happy — while not thinking — Crystal felt a desire to quarrel violently with this alien boy whom she loved and who loved her. Words poured out in a torrent, words which she knew Pablo did not half understand. He had deceived her, she charged; he was already promised to another girl, a girl whose heart would be broken if he married an American girl; he should be ashamed of himself.

Crystal struggled out of his encircling arm and sprang to her feet. "Go back to your Mexican muchacha," she stormed.

Pablo struggled to his feet, came toward her, but she was already in flight. "Quelida mia Pobrecita Pablo love."

His despairing cry followed the fleet-footed girl as she sped across the meadow toward the interurban station. Once she looked back, half fearfully, half hopefully. The early moon, breaking out of scudding clouds, showed her the tall, slender body of her Mexican sweetheart, walking toward her, not running to catch up. The scarlet, purple and black satin of the treader costume he had bought and worn to amuse and please her caught the moonlight shimmering. He was not going to try to overtake her, she knew; he was merely following her to protect her from uno toro toro — very tame! Crystal's tears began to stream blindly. She hesitated, then made the most momentous decision of her life.

About three minutes after the start of the second half, Mulford's guard was forced to leave the game and the locals played the rest of the fracas with only four men. INTRODUCTION

Orchid's real name was Ashtoreth.

Ashtoreth's name. A peculiar name—Ashtoreth. It may even impress you as absurd. Ashtoreth's mother is a romantic woman. She reads a great many novels and imagines herself a bit occult. Following her daughter's birth, she had strange dreams about ancient Egypt. She talked of reincarnation and declared that she had been a priestess and worshiped the moon. And lived in a marble palace and danced before strange gods. Her husband, at the time, feared for her sanity.

But Mrs. Ashe laid it all to mysticism and insisted upon naming her child Ashtoreth, after the moon goddess of old Egypt. It was to Ashtoreth that the Egyptian women prayed. Maidens seeking lovers. And wives desiring children.

Mrs. Ashe thought it was a lovely custom and sometimes begged favors herself of the moon. Not that she believed in it at all. It was merely a harmless little fantasy and pleased her sentimental nature.

Naturally Ashtoreth hates her strange name. People are always asking what it means and she finds explanations exceedingly embarrassing.

When she was small, the children with whom she played called her Ash-ash. It sounded rather like a cellar-way, or something gray and grubby; and the child hated it with all her fastidious little being. It was not only ugly. It was utterly incongruous. Because Ashtoreth's name is as exquisite a girl as ever lived. She looks a little like Dolores del Rio, only there is something more mysterious about her.

Her skin has a sort of ivory pallor. And she has gray-green eyes and vivid lips. Because her cheeks are colorless, the effect of her full, red mouth is startling as scarlet on old ivory.

She has high cheek bones and a pointed little chin. So that her face seems curiously heart-shaped. The effect is accentuated by the way in which she does her hair. It is straight black hair. Parted in the middle and twisted in great coils over her ears.

Victor Hugo said once of a theatrical celebrity: "She is not pretty—she is worse."

Now, Ashtoreth is not really pretty. She is rare. Different from other girls.

There are, for instance, typical debutantes, typical stenographers and typical sportswomen. Exactly as there are typical wives and typical chorus girls. But Ashtoreth is not so easily classified.

When Hugo spoke of the dancing girl, he probably had in mind that seductive quality known as sex appeal. A vulgar expression, but inclusive of attributes difficult of expression.

Hollis Hart, the famous financier, was extraordinarily impressed, the first time he saw her—and Hollis Hart was not a susceptible person.

It was a stormy day in January when Ashtoreth—summoned by an electric bell—opened the door to her private office, to take her first dictation from the famous Mr. Hart.

Ashtoreth was wearing a black crepe, swathed about her hips and caught on one side by an odd buckle. A most unusual buckle. A collector would have noticed it at once and speculated upon its origin. It happened, however, that Ashtoreth had made it herself, with a stick of sealing wax. One of green and the other of gold. The effect was of mottled jade.

On the forefinger of her left hand she wore a scarab, set in dull gold and reaching exactly to the first joint. It was not really an old scarab, nor valuable. But, as Ashtoreth knew, there are very few people who know antique scarabs when they see them.

She had found the stone in a jeweler's tray, priced among various odds and ends, at 50 cents. The setting she copied from a ring in the Egyptian room at the Art Museum. The whole thing cost perhaps $5 and looked fabulously rare and costly.

Ashtoreth never had much money to spend on herself. But with a measure of perspective she achieved considerable distinction. Shoes and stockings were her greatest extravagance.

Sheer chiffon hose and a scarab ring. A swathed crepe frock and high heeled pumps. Eminently unsuitable, of course for business wear. But Ashtoreth never aspired to be correct. She was individual. Moreover, she was clever.

"Other girls," she told her mother, "conform to style standards. They wear their skirts so short you'd think they were having a competition. They use the same sort of perfume and the same kind of face powder. Their dresses are all of a pattern. And their jewelry looks as if it had come off one counter. They even do their hair alike. They varnish their finger nails and shave their necks. They see the same movies and read the same books."

Ashtoreth shrugged distastefully. "And I've no doubt," she said, "they think the same thoughts—if any."

Mrs. Ashe had met her daughter downtown for luncheon. She was wearing, at the time, a purple velvet coat and gray pumps and stockings. Her dress was flowered chiffon. A riot of appetizing patterns and tiny poppies. Her hat, which she held in her ample lap, was a mass of healthy cotton violets. And her hair, shingled smartly, was dandelion yellow. Like Marilyn Miller's one season.

As Maizie Ashe says herself: Her hair is not natural—it is persuaded. She is a plump woman, with soft freckled skin and round blue eyes. Her coloring is like a bisque doll's and scarcely faded.

Now she surveyed her daughter across her beet and string bean salad. (Maizie would never diet of her own volition. Only when she ate out with Ashtoreth.)

"Miss Holty-toity!" she retorted amiably.

And, lying with a bran muffin, observed comfortably that it was only natural young folks should be alike.

counseled—"like your father. You'd ought to be more like me. You'd be a sight happier."

But Ashtoreth despised conformity. Her skirts were long, thereby attracting unusual attention to her legs, slim and lovely.

She wore black exclusively. And felt hats, summer and winter. With a bit of a brim, when everybody else thought brims were old-fashioned.

She never used perfume, but a haunting sachet instead. And rouge she abominated.

Ashtoreth loves beautiful things with an instinctive appreciation of color and texture. She bought remnants in appreciation of color and texture. She bought remnants in bargain basements. Bits of Chinese embroidery, to relieve the somber black of her frocks. Old lace. And an occasional length of lustrous satin, heavy as velvet.

She had a way of wrapping the stuff about her slender body. Her skirts swathed her hips. And she carried herself as French women do. She knows lines. And the drama of clothes. And how to drape materials, with a hint of voluptuousness in the clinging and the swish of them. As Helen of Troy wound her robe—and Cleopatra her purple gown—so Ashtoreth draped and gathered. A fold here and another there. Revealing the tantalizing loveliness of her soft, slim body.

Her clothes are clever, with a great pretension of modesty. Which is now Ashtoreth, in her simple crepe, came to fascinate the rich and mighty Hollis Hart. Exactly as Lady Hamilton, in her Grecian robe, vamped poor Lord Nelson.

There were 40 girls who worked in the outer office of Hart, Lee, Inc. And each of them coveted the enviable task of taking dictation from their distinguished president.

Ashtoreth had worked for the firm less than two months. Her speed was negligible and her accuracy doubtful. Yet no one was surprised when she received the appointment.

Ashtoreth opened the door of Mr. Hart's office quietly and closing it behind her, stood at his desk.

He was conscious of a very faint scent that seemed to creep gently about her. And he noticed, in a surprising moment, how clear her skin was.

"Pale as opals," he thought.

And that was astounding, because Hollis Hart had dictated to any number of girls. And never thought anything at all about them. Nor was he a poetic man.

It was strange, too, how the name "Orchid" flashed across his mind. He thought of it immediately, as fitting the pale girl who waited, note book in hand.

Hollis Hart was the last of an eminent family that traced its American lineage back to the first Huguenot settlers. "Scion of fame and fortune," as the papers say. Rhodes scholar, famous sportsman and a millionaire many times over.

Boston, at the time, was buzzing with the story of his reported engagement to the daughter of a British peer. Ashtoreth, of course, had heard the rumors. The peer, a bit impoverished, was said to be exceedingly close to the throne. And the daughter—before Hollis Hart had taken extended residence in London—was seen frequently in the company of the Prince of Wales.

There was a great deal of international gossip. But the real status of affairs no one knew. Hart was one of those men privileged, as they say, to pick and choose. And there were plenty of girls languishing to be picked.

The Sunday supplements told at great length of a glamorous widow with celebrated pearls, to whom Mr. Hart had been attentive. And the tabloids, replete with much detail, the agonized love of the French aviatrix who swallowed poison on Boston Common. It was whispered, they said, that the poor aviatrix was desperately and unavailingly in love with the well-known Mr. Hart.

Ashtoreth had heard of a certain beauty, glorified by Mr. Ziegfeld, who publicly avowed her affection. And then there was the Austrian dancer with the million-dollar legs—or, Hollis Hart had had his affairs—scores of them.

Their plea for clemency having been turned down by the Louisiana Board of Pardons, Mrs. Ada LeBoeuf and Dr. Thomas Dreher (shown above) of Franklin, La., are to be hanged Dec. 22 for the murder of James LeBoeuf, the woman's husband, unless the governor intercedes. The state alleged that Mrs. LeBoeuf and Dr. Dreher, madly in love, hired James Beadle, a trapper, to shoot LeBoeuf whose body was mutilated and thrown in a lake. The jury recommended life for Beadle. civil service list for the 1929 session, according to A. E. Garay, secretary of the civil service commission. As the civil service tests were being given for legislative employees in various county seats, 40 men were taking examinations for positions as guards at state penal institutions.

There are four vacancies to be filled. Two guards are needed immediately at the state prison at Waupun and two more are needed at the Green Bay reformatory.

Waupun guards are paid $80 monthly and receive one meal each day and a bunk in which to sleep. Reformatory guards receive $75 a month and all meals are furnished along with sleeping quarters.

Says Dreco Soon Ended Headaches

There is scarcely a person who has not suffered at one time or another with constipation, coated tongue, bad taste in the mouth, headaches, nervousness, irritability, boils, pimples or some other ailment brought on by sluggish, deranged organs or impure, slow-flowing blood. Dreco, because of its prompt action in so many cases of this kind, deserves a trial by everyone who is troubled in this way.

Proper Treatment Keeps College Students Healthy

That college students can be healthy if properly treated was demonstrated at Lawrence college last year when only 10 cases of contagious diseases were reported, according to Miss Irene McCourt, resident college nurse. Such a record, in view of the compactness of a college community and especially in view of the series of epidemics which swept the state a year ago, can be the result of an effective campus health service, she believes.

As evidence of the constant check that is made upon student health, Miss McCourt lists nearly 4,000 visits to the college infirmary made by nearly 600 Lawrence students last year. In addition to this, 700 dormitory calls were made by the two college nurses.

According to R. J. Watts, Lawrence business manager, the college health service expense approximates 3 per cent. of the total college budget or about $10 per student, only half of which is paid by student fees.

The present health service has been maintained with two nurses, a physician and a separate building as an infirmary for the past two years. Since that time the campus has at no time been troubled by a contagion of a serious nature whereas in the past epidemics were not uncommon.

The infirmary staff functions primarily in preventive and diagnostic treatment. The student is free to choose his own physician for further consultation or treatment. Physical examinations are given to every incoming student and defects of a serious nature are given special attention.

Dr. R. V. Landis is acting as college physician at the present time, assisted by two registered nurses, Miss Irene McCourt and Miss Geneva Blumichen.

FACTORY SITE TOO LOW FOR SEWER LINE

City Engineer Investigates Canning Company's Request

The site which the Hamilton Canning company, New London, has chosen for its new factory here is at least 15 feet lower than the Badger-ave sewer if that line is extended to the city limits, according to a survey recently completed by the city engineer for the special committee investigating the company's request for extension.

The Badger-ave sewer at its present terminus is between seven and eight feet lower than canning company's site and 11 feet extension is made to the city limits it will be about 15 feet lower, it was said.

The only manner in which the company could use the Badger-ave sewer, according to L. M. Schludner, city engineer, would be to pump sewage from the plant to a point in the system where gravity would take care of the flow.

PALMER CHIROPRACTOR

QUESTION: Is Chiropractic successful with yellow jaundice?—E. C.

ANSWER: Yes, we have splendid success with Yellow Jaundice. This is a liver or gall bladder condition. The cause is a misplaced joint of the spine causing pressure upon nerve trunks to the liver. Through our adjustments splendid results are obtained.

QUESTION: I am troubled with gas and constipation. I have tried all kinds of drugs and dieting without any help. What would you advise?—M. G.

ANSWER: Your digestive organs are sick. They are not receiving their supply of life from the nervous system. A chiropractor will correct this and you will have no further trouble.

QUESTION: Do you get results in acute diseases like pneumonia?—A. W.

ANSWER: Yes, and our best results are obtained with such cases. They respond very rapidly to our methods and if taken in time it is checked under adjustments and will not develop into pneumonia.

QUESTION: What is that instrument you are using in your practice which people say is so wonderful?—F. R.

ANSWER: It is a newly invented instrument which enables me to locate nerves that are under pressure. This instrument called the Neuro-Locator enables me to be certain in my work. It proves that nerves can be impinged. It proves the philosophy of Chiropractic.

FURS PLENTIFUL TRAPPERS REPORT

Skunk and Muskrat Skins Found to Be of Excellent Quality

Trappers and fur dealers report a successful season thus far and it is believed this year will be a banner year in the fur industry, they say.

Raw muskrat furs are being brought in at the present time, and are plentiful this year, trappers say. Skunks which are found to have the highest grade fur in Wisconsin, Michigan and Minnesota, also are numerous this season.

Mink are in demand this year and are bringing high prices, raw fur buyers report. The leading furs now in demand are raccoon, seal, otter, and beaver. All are bringing high prices and will cut quite a figure in the price of fur coats next year. Marten, skunks, and rats are all the best in Wisconsin, Minnesota, and Michigan. The mink found in the same localities are ranked with the best that can be found anywhere in the country, local fur dealers say. Wisconsin and northern raccoons are getting very scarce and fur buyers are offering high bounties.

How do you buy?

When you enter a store to buy anything, how do you ask for it? Do you call for the articles by name, or do you generalize—a can of tomato soup; a bag of flour; an aluminum kettle; so many square yards of linoleum; a meat grinder?

It is much better and far more satisfactory to specify the articles you want by name, for merchandise that is good enough to be sold by name is almost always better in quality, and usually no higher in price, than goods of uncertain lineage and less certain quality.

The advertising columns of this newspaper carry advertised names that are familiar to millions of people. Soap, flour, sugar, cereals, kitchen ware, rugs, linoleum, automobiles, etc. They represent those articles that stand for the best in their respective classes of merchandise—quality all through.

Advertising keeps these names before you constantly. Advertising is a constant reminder that the articles you want are the same articles that you see advertised day after day—that justify their being by the service they render. And advertising brings you news—of inventions, discoveries, improvements that keep you up to date.

Tell the sales-clerk what you want by its advertised name. You'll get it—and your money will purchase a full value. It pays to read advertising and remember advertised names.

NO WHITE HOUSE WEDDING WANTED BY JOHN'S GIRL

Too Much Display, Says Governor's Daughter in Exclusive Interview

BY ANNE WHELAN

Plainville, Conn. — She is the daughter of the wealthy governor of Connecticut. She is engaged to wed the son of the president of the United States. But there's nothing high-hat about Florence Trumbull. Her marriage plans mark her as an unusual example of simplicity and wholesomeness in young womanhood.

"I'll be married right here in Plainville," she said. "Then we'll take a simple little apartment in New Haven, where John works, start on a modest scale, pay as we go and not take any help from our parents. We'll shift for ourselves."

She proposes to do her own housework, and is learning to cook, a feminine accomplishment that had attracted her but slightly up to this time, and which she admits she does inexpertly.

SHE'LL TRAVEL A BIT MORE
"John must wait until he gets money enough to get married on," she went on, seriously, "and I would like to travel a bit more before settling down to married life."

The young girl who captivated the president's son is undeniably good to look at, though not a conventional beauty. She is above ordinary height for a girl, slim, straight and boyish in figure. Her skin is ruddy, clear and guileless of makeup. Her unobbed hair is marcelled in broad waves from a high forehead and done in a bob at the nape of the neck. While she dresses exceedingly well and has undeniable chic, preference for blue, and wears sport clothes in that pert, smart manner which makes the American girl distinctive.

"It would be gorgeous," she admitted, "to have a White House wedding, but on the other hand it would be too much display and excitement to suit John and me."

A BRILLIANT CEREMONY

So the wedding will take place right in the little town where Florence was born and her cousins and her sisters, Jean, probably will be her chief attendants.

All Connecticut will be invited to the wedding and the Washington diplomatic corps and the presidential set, making it probably the grandest wedding this little town ever has seen.

John Coolidge was Florence's first "steady" friend, just as she was his first sweetheart. They met on a train four years ago. John Coolidge was returning to Washington from Amherst on the same train in which Governor Trumbull and his family were going to Washington for the inaugural ceremonies.

Governor Trumbull went back to the car to pay his respects to John and brought him back into his compartment to meet Mrs. Trumbull and Florence. The romance started then. John, at Amherst, was only a few miles away from Florence at Mt. Holyoke, and at her invitation, he attended her college affairs.

Naturally, he was invited to Plainville. He liked the jolly atmosphere of the Trumbulls, where broad tennis courts, gardens and rooms for dancing always made life gay and happy.

The Trumbulls and their neighbors always have taken John's courtship for granted and his presence in the town has attracted little attention.

ACCOMPANIES HER ON ERRANDS

When he comes to town, like any other devoted swain, he accompanies Florence to the little shops on Main street, goes to the grocers and fruiterers and has been known to wait more than half an hour outside the hairdressers where Florence has her hair marcelled.

Sometimes he drives the handsome car Florence's father gave her, and sometimes she does.

They present an interesting study in contrasts. She is light and he is dark. He is quiet, like his father, and not given to small talk. She is a ready talker, vivacious, and sparkling.

She is no "high-brow," though she was a good student at college. "I'm not modern at all," she confessed "in the sense that I am a radical thinker, I like a good time, and I like thrills — just as all girls do."

She loves to dance and has taught young John a step or two. He has grown fond of dancing and dances very well.

Tennis is the favorite sport of Florence Trumbull, although she does not boast about her game. In college she majored in English and has such a fondness for books that she once thought she would like to be a librarian. She reads few modern novels, makes no pretense of keeping up with the intelligentsia, and has a keen admiration for Dickens.

SMOKING IS DIFFERENT
A generally tolerant person, nevertheless she is opposed to drinking. At her parties nothing intoxicating ever is served. Smoking she regards as a matter of individual taste — she herself is not opposed to it.

The Trumbull family have lived in the village of Plainville for generations, and are identified with its history. Everyone knows them. As a little girl, Florence went to Bradford Academy and then to Mt. Holyoke, where her mother had gone before her.

"Florence is no snob," said the weathered gate tender outside her father's big factory. "When she went away to school and had more advantages than any of the girls she went to school with, she has always been mighty unaffected. We all wish her luck and happiness."

Talking Over Marriage Plans

Cameramen Are Sorry As Coolidge Leaves Capitol

BY ALLENE SUMNER

Washington—A lot of people in Washington are going to regret the departure of President Coolidge from the White House next March 4, but none will regret it more than the capital's small army of newspaper and movie reel photographers.

For Mr. Coolidge is regarded by them as one of the best of "subjects"—while they think President-elect Hoover is about the worst.

Mr. Coolidge doesn't mind being photographed; Mr. Hoover does. Mr. Coolidge is willing to pose in almost any way requested. Mr. Hoover isn't.

One learns a lot about big men from the fellows whose job it is to photograph them on all sorts of occasions and under all kinds of conditions and circumstances. They come to know them well.

"Yeah, Coolidge is okeh," one of the picture hounds will tell you. "He always seems to it that every one of us gets our pictures. Some times several of the boys are late and they'll come running up just after the pose is finished. The president will wait for them and do the handshaking stuff all over again. He never leaves but what he turns around and smiles: 'Well, boys—got all you want?'"

But Hoover's entirely different, according to these fellows. They have known him as food administrator, secretary of commerce, flood relief director and many of them were with him in Belgium. And they call him the hardest man in Washington to photograph.

An outstanding complaint seems to be that Mr. Hoover, when being photographed, dislikes to remove his hat, always prefers to look the lens full in the face and utterly refuses to button his famous double-breasted coat.

"He should know better than to wear double-breasted, a big fellow like him," said one of the cameramen. "And if he must, he ought to keep 'em buttoned—but he won't."

And, to prove his point, he drew forth a file of Hoover pictures. All were in the double-breasted coat and the double-breasted coat was open to the breeze, regardless of the weather.

Another difference—from the cameramen's standpoint—is that Mr. Coolidge is willing to wear clothes that make good pictures, and Mr. Hoover isn't. For instance, when Mr. Coolidge goes fishing he gets in fishermen's togs, when he goes trap-shooting he dresses as a trapperhunter would dress.

But with Mr. Hoover, regardless of the occasion, it's nearly always the slouch hat and the double-breasted coat. Once, in the west last summer, the boys got a picture of him in fishing togs—and half of them wanted to frame it, right then and there.

Interest Is Increasing Annually, Vocational Coordinators Report

Interest in safety and foremanship training conferences is increasing annually and this year 3,154 men are enrolled in 14 schools in various cities throughout the state which have been arranged through Appleton vocational school coordinators.

Cities in which classes in the various divisions are being conducted are Appleton, Eau Claire, Green Bay, Kaukauna, Marinette, Menasha, Neenah, Rhinelander, Stevens Point, Wausau, Wisconsin Rapids, La Crosse, Mosinee and Sheboygan. One hundred and thirty men are enrolled in foremanship and safety training classes here, 57 at Eau Claire, 141 at Green Bay, 15 at Kaukauna, 124 at Marinette, 147 at Menasha, 23 at Neenah, 368 at Rhinelander, 418 at Wausau, 80 at Wisconsin Rapids, 23 at Mosinee, 412 at La Crosse, and 536 at Sheboygan.

Local coordinators and instructors organizing classes in these cities are H. G. Noyes, coordinator of the pulp and paper industry; Harry Wenzel, safety school coordinator; Arthur Bonifard, coordinator of the plumbing industry and M. W. Smith, foremanship training instructor.

BEWARE THE COUGH FROM COLDS THAT HANG ON

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

RECORD NUMBER OF DEER HUNTERS HIT TRAIL THIS SEASON

Governor Zimmerman Among Fortunate Nimrods Who Bagged Buck

Superior—(P)—Although the deer season which closed Monday was marred by accidental deaths, it witnessed the largest turnout of nimrods in the history of practically every county in Northern Wisconsin.

At Superior, Roy Cole, Douglas-co clerk, issued 4,800 hunting licenses and 3,800 deer tags before Monday.

Over 5,000 deer hunters scoured the woods of Ashland county in search of the wary buck this season, it was estimated by members of the North Wisconsin Red and Gum club which has more than 800 active members.

Prominent in this number if Gov. Fred R. Zimmerman, hundreds of down-state sportsmen and large numbers of Chicago hunters.

Governor Zimmerman, one of the fortunate game seekers, bagged his 220-pound buck near Loreta, deep in the woods of Sawyer county's wilderness. "Scarface Al Capone" of Chicago, who spent several days hunting, apparently was not fortunate, as no reports of his having killed a deer have been made. A summer home or private summer resort has been reported as being built near Winter for Capone.

Discussion of changing the two-year season was a topic among deer hunters this year and sentiment for a five year closed season on deer was not strong with Ashland county sportsmen. They decided there were more bucks in the wood this year than there have been for many seasons.

The alternating closed season permits the deer to multiply in sufficiently rapid numbers, they believe.

Farmers are not strong for a change, it is said. If deer receive too much latitude, they become a menace to crops and orchards, farmers say. Some Ashland county citizens, however, prefer to see a five-year closed season. They believe it is better to have the deer alive than to have them become almost extinct because of over-zealous hunters.

Wisconsin Must Guard Against Flu

Local People Urged to Prevent Epidemic Spreading as it Did in 1918, When Half a Million Lives Were Lost in This Country Alone.

Don't Take Chances With Colds

While there is no cause for alarm at this time, health authorities urge extra precaution — especially now, when grip, colds, pneumonia and influenza are so prevalent.

Colds Lead to "Flu"

Warning is given particularly against neglecting colds, which lower one's physical resistance and thus make the body easy prey for influenza, grip and pneumonia. Even a little cold, authorities say, is dangerous unless checked at once.

The only safe plan is to check every cold at the start by a vigorous application of Vicks Vapo Rub, rubbed on throat and chest at bed time.

Acts 2 Ways at Once
Four hours after Vicks is applied, its ingredients, time-tested remedies, such as camphor, menthol, eucalyptus, thyme, and turpentine, are released as vapors by the body-heat, and inhaled, warding off the infected air-passages, loosening the phlegm and easing the difficult breathing.

At the same time, Vicks acts through the skin like a poultice, "drawing out" tightness and pain.

Avoids "Dosing" Children
Mothers especially appreciate Vicks for children, as it can be used freely and often, without disturbing the digestion—"You just rub it on."

Over 21 million jars are used yearly.

Lawrence Student Sells Rugs To Pay Expenses

There are various ways of working for an education and students have come from far to attend American schools but Ellis Joseph, Syrian student at Lawrence, holds the mileage record and has an extraordinary way of earning his living at that institution.

Ellis Joseph has gone half way around the world to satisfy his longing for an American education and is maintaining himself at Lawrence college by selling genuine oriental rugs which are shipped to him by his uncle in Syria. Money exchange rates operate so unfavorable on Arabian money or Indian rupees that an American education would drain too heavily upon his relatives if paid for in that way.

So yearly shipments of oriental rugs are sent to Joseph and by selling these he is able to be self-supporting.

Mr. Joseph has been in the United States for three years, spending two years at the Dickinson academy in Williamsport, Penn., and one year at Duke university, North Carolina. Following this he started on a hitchhike tour and visited Appleton.

Whether it was his Nomadic Syrian blood that prompted a change or his liking for the Wisconsin college, he does not say, but he has transferred his credits and is enrolled as a student active in athletics, boxing, cross country, and track.

"Few Javanese students come to the United States," Joseph states, "because the cold weather is so hard on them." To combat this constant enemy Joseph joined the Lawrence cross country squad this fall and is now enrolled in the boxing class. Speaking of his pugilistic abilities prompts him to tell about how he and the heavyweight champion of Malay were planning to come to the United States together. "We were trying to save enough money to pay for passage. He waited and is still there. I took a chance, and here I am."

CARNIVALS START SOUTHLAND TREK
End of Season Finds Troupers Heading for Winter Quarters in South

Montgomery, Ala.—(P)—The barkers, freaks, "crackers" and "joint" men, roustabouts and owners are at the end of the 1928 carnival trail. With the windup of the nation's fair season, the harvest days are over for the trailing troupers whose life from spring to near-winter is one succession of tents, trains and weekly "jumps."

Spunked over Dixie are winter quarters of the showmen. One of the largest carnivals of the country winters on the grounds of the state fair here. Another organization uses the Louisiana State Fair grounds at Shreveport. The Georgia State Fair grounds at Savannah is also a favored wintering spot. One carnival widely known in the United States and Canada winters at Orlando, Fla.

Winter, however, is not of necessity an idle period. Waxons, trucks and railway equipment need repairing. The lurid side show fronts require painting and retouching. New costumes are revised. New "rides" are conceived and built or purchased from manufacturers and put in running order. The owners and agents go forth on booking tours and attend district and state fair conventions. Many of the carnival retinue visit their old homes, some even going to Europe. The southward hegle is not confined to carnivals alone. One of the country's major circuses winters at Sarasota, Fla. Another is utilizing the fair grounds at Macon, Ga., for its winter home.

Buddy Myers Sent Back To Gripps For Flock Of Players

AMERICAN LEAGUE TEAMS VIEING FOR TRADING HONORS

Refuse to Be Outdone by Nationals Who Hold Edge in Hornsby Deal

BY HERBERT W. BARKER
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK — It may be that 1928 will become known in baseball circles as the year of the "big trade winds."

The playing season is no more than two months past yet already some clubs have so radically revised their rosters that a fan may be excused for being a bit bewildered as he sees apparent fixtures shunted off to some other major league team or else into the minors.

It has become an annual feature for Rogers Hornsby, George Uhle, and the Boston Braves, didn't disappoint a waiting public. He graciously gave "the Rajah" to the Chicago Cubs for Percy Jones, Fred Maquire, several rookie players and a fat bundle of cash.

Not to be outdone by their National league rivals, the Boston Red Sox have consented to let Washington have Buddy Myers, crack third baseman, for the trifling consideration of five players. The Red Sox's best player last year and the league's leading exponent of the art of stolen bases, Bill Carrigan, manager of the Red Sox, will have to find room for Horace Lisenbee and Milt Gaston, pitchers, Bobby Reeves and Grant Gillis, infielders and Ed Bigelow, a Southern association outfielder who played minor league pitching with abandon.

Pittsburg needed a left-handed pitcher so the Pirates sent Glenn Wright to the Brooklyn Robins for Jess Petty and Harry Riccardi, the latter an infielder when he's not sitting on the bench.

George Uhle, will see whether the weather at Detroit is any better for his pitching arm than at Cleveland while Jackie Tavener and Ken Holloway doing their infelding and pitching, as the case may be, for the Indians.

These have been the major deals of the off-season but there have been a number of other changes of more than a little interest. There are a number of clubs who could make use of the pitching of which Flint Rhem and Vic Aldridge are capable yet both these right handers find themselves in the minors. Aldridge, has been sold to Tris Speaker's club of the International league, Rhem, a great pitcher in 1926, has been sent to Minneapolis of the American League. Both were valued out of the majors chiefly because of a reputation for being hard to handle.

ST. JOE CAGERS IN FIRST GAME FRIDAY

John Rossmessl, Guard, Has Been Honored With Captaincy

Unless the epidemic of grip which has forced postponement of many public gatherings here also forces postponement of the initial game St. Joseph Junior high school basketball team will trot their 1928-29 aggregation out on the floor for the first time Friday evening. The opponent will be a team from Freedom. The match is being played in St. Joseph gym.

Last season the parochial youngsters took part in 14 games and won 10 of them. A strong schedule will be arranged for the coming season if the team shows signs of progress and games already have been guarded with several fives in this locality.

Last season's team which sent Steenis and Forester to the high school squad romped over Little Chute 28 to 8, lost to Oshkosh high seconds in two over time periods and to Kaukauna and Menasha seconds, two tough assignments. Kimberly high school was the other team to take a victory over the quintet.

Coach Mel Heimitz has 18 men on the squad this winter and they have been practicing nightly for the last three weeks. Indications now are that John and Clem Rossmessl will be guards on the team, the former also having been honored with the captaincy, Welbis and Webber will cavort at the forwards with Mullen at center. Several of the men played on last year's team and show promise of rounding into clever ball tossers this year.

Eddie Kotal Named On Second All-Pro Grid "11"

LAVIE DILWEG, former Marquette star and Verne Lewellen, both of the Green Bay Packers, have been placed on the first All-American pro football team by club managers and newspaper men in cities of the pro league. Dilweg was placed at end and Lewellen at half-back.

Dieth of the Frankford Yellow Jackets, a youngster, won the full-back post over veteran rivals. Tony Latone of Pottsville won the second team fullback post.

BRUSHING UP SPORTS ... By Laufer

THE "old man of the bike," they call him.

He is Reggie McNamara, dean of the six-day bicycle racers, who at 42 is still competing in the saucer-pounding classics. Just recently he completed his fifty-sixth six-day grind at Madison Square Garden.

He and his partner, Van Nek, were not the winners, but Reggie demonstrated pedaled miles in his gnarled old legs. He supplied the thrills of the race.

In his brilliant career of the "squirrel cage" McNamara seldom finished out of the money. Thirteen times he pumped his mount over the line a victor. Seven times he finished second, nine times ran third and four times he grabbed fourth money.

On every part of McNamara's frame are scars that show the years he pedaled a bike on the boards.

Many a time has the "iron man" pushed his face along the pine saucers. But he always came back for more.

Since his triumph in Paris two years ago Reggie has been pursued by a pinx that camps on the trail of all riders at various times in their career. Spills robbed him of several meets in the past two years, but his riding in the last six-day affair makes him confident he has the hoo-doo on the run.

Oshkosh, Manitowoc And E. Bays May Win Crown

Scribes Have Started Picking and That's Their Conclusion

BY G. R. MCINTYRE

Nowadays the great indoor sport or privilege of the scribes is to pick something, all conference teams, championship teams—and lemons.

At any rate the boys have started sipping up the situation among valley conference basketball teams and the dope is that Oshkosh, Manitowoc, and East Green Bay are going to waddle off with the honors, perhaps in the order named. That's good, and more power to them.

Down at Oshkosh Coach Schneider has two forwards returning from last year, Fugh and Tudyeh, the latter of football fame, one guard, Captain Dave Leihensen, and a youngster named Hiesberg who once played on a vocational school team but who decided a high school education was better in view of the fact he is a pretty good cager.

Leaving names rest for a while it looks as though Schneider has two of the best scorers seen in many a moon, for the Sawdust city youths certainly performed in rare style last season, and when they got their hands on the ball most anything was liable to happen around the hoop. Fugh especially is an all-conference forward from last season and rated one of the best basket tossers in the state.

Leihensen is hoped to be a ranking guard this winter mainly for reason of his performance last year. His running mate will be the fifth member of Schneider's potential champs, a youngster named Knutson who will play guard only after the flip, the initial play of the game being up to him while Hiesberg plays guard. Hiesberg then is booked to play the pivot position.

Should the lineup prove a success the Sawdust city coach also has five reliable substitutes in Schreiber, Polisky, Steckbauer, Strubbing and Williams.

Over at Manitowoc the potential title hopes lie in Kupke and Gorychka, two husky forwards. Their fall occupation is that tackle on the football team and if forwards are usually the smallest men on the team, it'll be a giant aggregation representing the lake shore school. Viorie and Galt-brath, the former boasting a little experience on the court last season, also are two men around whom Coach John will build his team.

There isn't much information available on East Green Bay's prospects just yet, but perhaps the boys figure that most of Coach Wiley's football team will report along with Red Daman, the Bay once captain and with a general high type of material it will be easy to mould a quintet.

Apparently the most that can be said of West Green Bay is that they have a nice new gym to play in this winter. Reports are there aren't any better men back in school this year and that an entirely new team will have to be organized from the 50 men who reported at early practice.

Mannette has a few cagers with which to get started, it is said, Captain Bannars, guard, being the only regular from last season. Hoyt helped a bit by Frushomme, and Dobbins two irregulars last season and forwards. A couple youngsters who transferred to the northern school, Willoughby's former of Melton and Shepp's former of Lourdes high school, also are expected to come through for their new allegiance.

Sheboygan high school appears to have a fair team on paper for Zaskewas and Zaskowski are back, the former a forward, the latter a guard. Wick and Greenstein, two fair performers also will be moulded into this winter's team, perhaps, along with Kaeppler, Ackerman, Hess, Johnson and Fahres. The Sheboygan team lost its first game to Port Washington Friday night but it's no use taking stock in initial performances.

Fond du Lac is another one of the teams in the valley which has already tasted defeat, losing to Beaver Dam by a close score. Coach Fruth has a center and forward from last season, Edward Mullen, and "Red" Kennedy, respectively. This chorp Mullen is almost a one man team, however, for he counted six baskets by himself, against the heavens. And wait until some of the other youngsters get going. Hansen is the other forward, Treleven, Chalkins and Chisman, guards.

And of course up here in Appleton, we haven't much of anything to back Bobby Kunitz to play with Jake Schaefer and in between times keep opponents from making goals, little Benny Rafotz to cavort at center with not much chance of getting the tip-off and Berg and Gochbauer to race around the floor trying to hang onto the ball once in a while.

The five men who so far haven't substitute in the world and beat Neenah, the other evening, but that doesn't mean much because Coach Shields said so will have a couple more days of practice this week and then meet Kaukauna in the armory.

Around The Sport World

WHAT TERRIBLE SOPS!

THERE was a time not so many years ago, in what is sometimes referred to as the good old days, when almost all of the big baseball deals were made over the bar in the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel in New York. The winter meetings were then very heavy drinking sessions for baseball and to some extent the meetings that followed in the drier period were a neat attempt to live up to the old standard.

The baseball clans all gathered this year in Toronto for the most widely attended session the minor leagues ever have attended. The minors were all there and the major league had their representatives in full force. And Toronto had everything to provide the old amusement.

"But it wasn't a wet session," an American League magnate said on his return. "I didn't see a stew all the time I was there. We had our room stocked with champagne, whiskey and cordials. We had a party one night for a lot of baseball men and you might not believe it, but all that whole bunch drank was a quart of whiskey and a bottle of gin."

much dough for the Babe because so much of it goes right into circulation.

It was suggested that the good colonel should pay the Babe at least $100,000 a year and the colonel playfully remarked — "You fellows certainly like to spend my money for me."

It has become a habit in baseball to spend the good colonel's dough for the reason, perhaps, that he has so much it would take a squad to spend it. Every time a minor league club owner wants to inflate the value of his franchise or boost the price of a ball player he announces that he is about to do business with the Yankees.

In recent weeks it has been reported that Col. Ruppert had bought the Syracuse, Nashville, San Antonio, Atlanta, Chambersburg and Asheville ball clubs and that they might organize a new league of eight clubs.

THE ANSWER IS NO

Knute Rockne told the Notre Dame boys that he would be forced to invent a new system for 1929 in which a new and deceptive style of offense would be stressed. And he said also that he was entirely to blame for the loss of the four games that were dropped this year by the Notre Dame team.

The Rock is just the kind of a fellow to say that about himself, but it is interesting to figure if he would have admitted his guilt if one of his suits on the bench had charged him with it.

LOUGHRAN MEETS "BIG BOY" PETERSON

Sangor and Santiago Also Matched on Chicago Mitt Card

Chicago —(P)—Tommy Loughran, Philadelphia, the light heavyweight champion who aspires to the heavyweight crown, starts his campaign for recognition as a contender Monday night mixing with "Big Boy" Peterson, New Orleans heavyweight, in a ten round bout at the coliseum.

Peterson, who outweighs Loughran by 15 pounds, is regarded as a "trial horse."

While he packs a good punch, he is a wide open target for a fighter of the shifty Loughran type.

Two other 10 round bouts, bring together Joey Sangor, Milwaukee featherweight, and Armando Santiago, Cuba, and Shuffie Callahan and Ted Ross, both of Chicago.

POSITIONS ARE REVERSED

A few years back George McBride was manager and Stanley Harris a player at Washington Now, at Detroit, Harris is the boss and McBride is his assistant.

Friday. The conference cage season begins Jan. 4 with Sheboygan at Sheboygan.

And then we'll see whether the boys have picked championship possibilities—or lemons.

KIMBERLY DEFEATS MANITOWOC, 35-21

Ship Builders Play Without Bazal, Center; Arrive Hour Late

Kimberly—The Manitowoc City cagers invaded Kimberly Sunday night and the Kimberly club team proved to them they could not always be beaten the way the Shipbuilders swamped them at Manitowoc some time ago. The Papermakers led throughout the game and at the end, the final score being 35 to 21 in their favor.

The Manitowoc team arrived nearly an hour later than the time scheduled, and the game did not start until 9:15. Bazal, the coach and center of the Manitowoc five was missing and the players seemed lost throughout the game. They played fairly good but did not function properly without their leader, Hoberman substituted in Bazal's place.

"Pete" Koll was back in his position as forward for the Papermakers and played a good game—although it took him until the third quarter before he scored. Joseph Gossens, in spite of the fact that his eyes were burning from caustic he got into them while working Sunday morning, caged seven of the club's field goals and one free throw. Dud Courchane followed with three baskets and one free throw. Dud Courchane and Busch scored two baskets each.

During the last quarter the fans were given a little excitement when Joseph Logan tripped Koll on a tossed ball and a set of boxing gloves would have come in handy in what ensued. A couple of punches were exchanged and both players put out of the game. Gunderson replaced Koll and Peppard went in for Logan.

The first quarter ended 5-3 in Kimberly's favor. Gossens, Courchane, Busch, and Logan making the baskets for their respective teams. During the second quarter Gossens and Hoberman scored three baskets each for their teams. Dud Courchane two and Busch one. Joseph Logan was substituted for his twin Charley. The half ended 17-8 in Kimberly's favor.

During the third period Logan, Hoberman and Peppard each scored for Manitowoc; Du Chaine and Koll each dropped in a long shot, Koll a short side shot, and Busch a spectacular side shot. This left the score 25-14 in favor of the Papermakers. C. Logan was substituted for Peppard. Joyce started the last period by fouling Gossens. The basket was made and one out of two tries. Koll fouled Joyce and a basket was made. Gossens and C. Logan each dropped in two other baskets and Dud Courchane one. The game ended 35-21 in Kimberly's favor.

Two Junior teams of the Saturday morning league played the preliminary. The Blues defeated the Whites 17-15.

KAUKAUNA CAGERS BEAT Y. M. C. A. TEAM

Appleton Team Leads at Half but Lutz' Shooting Puts Kaws Ahead

The Mulford Clothiers of Kaukauna waited until the second half of their game Saturday evening with Appleton Y. M. C. A. team before they started counting but it was enough to beat the local cagers 38 to 30. The Kaukauna victory was made possible by the "hot" shooting of Herby Lutz, who once in a while calls Appleton his home town.

Cecil Furminger, center for the association team was the big gun in the first half attack counting five baskets while, Pierce counted two and Ray Monmouth one. Herb Lutz with four counters and Engerson with two were keeping the Kaws in the running and the half ended 19 to 16 in favor of the Appleton team.

The Kaws loafed a while in the second half and let the association five get a substantial lead. Lutz then came to life and aided by three tosses by Kilgas and one by Engerson tied the score and then capped the game.

Play in the league will be resumed Tuesday night when the Kimberly-Clark team meets the Fox River Papers and the Kimberly club aggregation meets the Citizen Bank team.

Georgia Tech Favored To Win Football Title

BY HENRY L. FARRELL

THE tennis players say it is smart stuff to lay back until your fellow is winded and then slam them in before he gets his breath. The same strategy might be applied by the literary athlete who has to play around with words about football teams.

It has been found to be a clever defense to sneak over the All-American team on the customers, get them talking out of breath and then shoot in the national ranking before they get their second wind.

Under the conditions that prevail this year it would be more sensible to wait until Georgia Tech plays California to deliver a powerful piece on the leading teams of 1928, but football won't be very hot reading in the middle of January. And it may be that the result of the Tournament of Roses game will not force a change in any opinion that may be offered now.

If Georgia Tech wins from California, the southerners will merely clinch a first place, to which they have at least a half title now. If California should win the game we cannot be convinced that California would be the national champion because the season's record as a whole simply must be considered above one game.

If teams were to be rated on the one game in which they reached their peak—and there is only one perfect game a season for any one team—you could be argued to death that Carnegie Tech, New York University, Notre Dame, Stanford, Tennessee and the Oregon Aggies all had equal rights to first place on the ranking list. All these teams, and more, too, had one game in which they looked like a team that couldn't be beaten.

Considering their records, their teams as a playing unit, their consistency and the opposition they met we would rank the teams as follows:

1. Georgia Tech and Southern California.
2. Army.
3. Detroit, Boston College and Pennsylvania.
4. Stanford, Tennessee and Florida.

This method of ranking the teams seems to be piling a lot of football players in a short space, but if we knew any more accurate way of putting them down one under another in a list we would put them down that way.

There being no prizes awarded for second, third, fourth, fifth, it is not a binding obligation to mention the teams that were not one or two. The ones that know they were not will not have much to say about it.

There's a lot of reverse English on the ball when you start to rank the teams. The reasons why a team shouldn't be placed first are as easy to find as reasons why they should, and approaching it negatively we can't find any valid reason why Georgia Tech and Southern California shouldn't be your choice for first.

We favor Georgia Tech because the team was neither tied nor beaten, and Southern California was held to a tie by California. Tech played a representative schedule in its own section, and so did Southern California. Each team beat Notre Dame.

Georgia Tech did not play Florida or Tennessee, two of the strongest teams of the south, but Tech didn't duck them. Tech never has been accused of ducking, and it is quite certain that Florida and Tennessee would have been on the schedule if the schedule makers had known they were going to be so good.

And this must be considered. There was just as much chance for Tech to be knocked off by one of these easy-looking teams on the schedule as there was for the Army to take it on the chin from Notre Dame, New York University to be smacked by the Oregon Aggies.

Southern California, perhaps, beat some stronger teams in its section and Georgia Tech did in the south, and it surely was more than a very good team in beating Stanford, and a Notre Dame team that must have been a little better for its performance than it was when it was beaten by Georgia Tech. There is, though, the tie game with California, and even if the California boys may have sprayed the field before the game, it stands on the record as a tie game.

The Army certainly is up there. If not the best team of the year, it was perhaps the most outstanding because of the terrific schedule it went through with the loss of only two games.

Detroit and Boston College didn't lose a game. They shouldn't have lost a game on the schedule they had. If Tennessee had not been tied by Kentucky and if Florida had not been beaten by Tennessee these two southern teams would deserve an equal rating with Detroit and B. C. Pennsylvania last only one game in a hard schedule, and because of its harder schedule we ranked Penn above the two southern teams.

ASHMAN HELPS MIAMI BEAT UNION TEAM, 7-6

Coral Gables, Fla.—University of Miami defeated Union university at football Saturday, 7-6, although the visitors battered the Miami line and came close to scoring, only to lose the ball on fumbles several times.

Union scored first in the opening period, Stewart breaking through tackle from the three-yard line, after line plunges had brought the ball there.

Union scored first in the opening period, Stewart breaking through tackle from the three-yard line, after line plunges had brought the ball there.

Miami's touchdown came in the second quarter on a pass O'Brien to Ashman. Ashman kicked to give the margin a victory.

The Ashman referred to in this story is Roger Ashman, who has been playing with the Hurricanes for the last couple years. Cliff Courtney, another Appleton boy, is captain of the team.

RUBBER, COFFEE HOLD HOOVER'S GAZE IN BRAZIL

American Ambassador May Be Host There of President-Elect

BY L. A. BROPHY
Washington, (P)—In Brazil, President-elect Herbert Hoover may hear most about the rubber and coffee industry and the increasing amount of capital from the United States entering there. American attention has focused recently upon these three things.

Henry Ford's effort to grow cultivated rubber in Brazil is getting under way on a tract of land of ample proportions, 125 miles south of the Amazon river. The American may be the instrumentality through which Brazil will regain its position as a world producer of rubber.

The rise and fall of Brazil's rubber industry is a fascinating story and the probability that an American may lead the way to world prestige again is as interesting a sequel.

The coffee industry in Brazil is one of nine government controlled combinations of its many raw materials which the markets of all lands demand.

Coffee prices are maintained by control of the supply. Only certain quantities are permitted to reach Brazilian ports the remainder being held in warehouses in the interior. Mr. Hoover's opportunity to study, first-hand, Brazil's plan of valorization of coffee crops at a time when the government has been faced with a somewhat acute problem growing out of the bumper coffee crop for the year ending June 30.

As of that date, 13,109,077 bags of coffee were held out of market. Each bag contains 132 pounds. A tremendous amount of money consequently was needed to finance growers until the surplus goes through the market bottleneck.

American capital has been flowing into Brazil at an accelerated rate lately, much of it finding its way into public utility holdings.

The world obtained most of its rubber from Brazil until the last decade and a half. Since then most of it has come from British and Dutch possessions in the middle east.

Brazil's rubber grew wild. Twenty-five years ago an Englishman left Brazil with 75,000 seeds of the tree Hevea Brasiliensis, the species which produces 95 per cent of the world's rubber and which is indigenous to the Amazon valley.

Transported to Ceylon, Malaya and other middle east possessions, a few of those seeds developed into trees. From that has come the great cultivated rubber industry of the middle east.

As cultivation increased the yield of rubber, and made it better in other ways, Brazil's market for the wild product declined. World exports of rubber now total 600,000 tons annually. Brazil supplies less than 20,000 tons.

In 1905, wild rubber composed 99.7 per cent of the world's supply. It is 6 per cent today.

Whether Mr. Ford's efforts will result in successful cultivation of rubber in Brazil is a question that time alone can answer.

Dr. Washington Luis is president of Brazil. He took office in 1925. His administration has been noted for stabilization of the country's currency, progress in road building, and reform of the system of public instruction.

Edwin V. Morgan, United States ambassador at Rio de Janeiro, will be the Hoover host.

MURPHY SIGNED AS BADGER CREW COACH

Has Been Freshman Rowing Coach at Yale for Five Years

Madison—(P)—George W. "Mike" Murphy, freshman crew coach at Yale, is the new university of Wisconsin crew coach, succeeding Harry E. "Dad" Vail who died this fall. He will start his duties here immediately.

Murphy coached his first freshman crew at Yale in 1923. He was a student at the University of Washington in the fall of 1923. In his freshman year he rowed stroke and was elected captain of the yearling crew. In his sophomore year he was stroke of varsity crew and in his junior year he was elected captain. His senior year he was again re-elected but left school in the fall of 1922 to come to Yale with Ed Leader, a new coach, as mentor for the first year oarsmen.

His success with the freshman Yale showed winning crews in 13 out of 18 races.

BEAVER DAM CAGERS BEAT FONDY ENTRY

Beaver Dam—The Beaver Dam high school team defeated Fond du Lac high in a basketball game here, 21 to 17. The Fondy cagers started strong at a fast clip and were leading 10 to 5 when the first half ended. Then the Beavers got started and stepped out in front with some clever short passing work and some pretty basket shots. Mullein, with six field goals, started at center for Fond du Lac while Schoenewetter and Glard, each with three field goals, starred for the locals.

MORE PRAISE FOR AVERILL

Oscar Vitt, manager of the Hollywood team, says Earl Averill, Cleveland rookie, is "the nearest thing to Sam Crawford that has been developed since Sam left the game."

BEST IN SALLY LEAGUE

Outfielder Whitey Feiber, with Knoxville, and Pitcher Bill Harris, with Asheville, were the outstanding players in the Sally League during 1928.

The high school football team at Tuscaloosa, Ala., hasn't lost a game since the start of the 1925 season and have been tied but once in this four-year period.

Views Awaiting Hoover's Eye

The condition of the rubber and coffee industries of Brazil may be brought to President-elect Hoover's attention when he stops at Rio de Janeiro, the capital, on his good-will tour, Edwin V. Morgan (lower right), U. S. Ambassador to Brazil, will be the Hoover host. Above is a bird's-eye-view of the city, and (lower left) the Avenida Rio Branco there.

There were 25 added officers.

STAGE And SCREEN

"A WOMAN OF AFFAIRS," REUNITES NOTED SCREEN LOVERS AS CO-STARS

John Gilbert and Greta Garbo, whose disarming naturalness in the more romantic interludes of "Flesh and the Devil" and "Love" caused a deal of speculation as to whether or not they took tea together as pleasantly when not chaperoned by a camera, are the co-stars of "A Woman of Affairs," a Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture, which will open at Fischer's Appleton Theatre Monday.

The story of this film is by Michael Arlen, and the direction is by Clarence Brown, who also guided the players in "Flesh and the Devil." The cast, "all-star," according to the announcement, includes Lewis Stone, Hobart Bosworth, Dorothy Sebastian, John Mack Brown and Douglas Fairbanks, Jr.

No secret was made at the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studio that the reason for the combination of Arlen and Gilbert and Miss Garbo, and Brown, and the leading players, was to give the cinemagoers as nearly as possible just what they showed they wanted by the reception of the previous two co-starring pictures.

So far as that company is concerned no other combination of players resulted in such numbers of queries by mail and by telephone, as did the association of Gilbert and Miss Garbo in the same picture play. The conclusion of the producers was that there were no two stars on the screen in whose affairs the public was so interested.

In this picture Miss Garbo has the role of a vivacious, hoydenish and effervescent society girl, of London, who sounds rather different from her previous screen interpretations. The advance word also is that she has altered her style in clothes for this picture. It is said, however, that the fashion in Garbo-Gilbert close-ups (not to mention long shots) still follows the same silhouette.

"DREAM OF LOVE"

Romantic intrigue amid royal environment, fierce revolutions, gay court in fabled London where the erotic debauch, glamorous receptions and fiery love episodes enliven the dramatic moments that motivate "Dream of Love," which opens a 5-day engagement at the Elite theatre today.

This brilliant Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer feature is one of the most pretentious films ever to reach the screen and in settings, costumes and spectacular scenes sets a new pace in cinema fare.

Fred Niblo, who directed "Ben-Hur," and many more recent triumphs, including Greta Garbo's "The Mysterious Lady," was behind the camera in this new feature and may be credited with another exceptional directorial accomplishment.

Joan Crawford and Nils Asther appear in the leading roles in the gripping modernization of "Adrienne Lecouvreur," seventeenth century play in which Sarah Bernhardt starred for many seasons in Paris.

An elaborate supporting cast includes such splendid players as Allen Pringle, Carmel Myers, Warner Oland, Harry Reinhardt, Harry Myers, Alphonse Marten and Fletcher Norton.

Dorothy Farnum, who adapted the French play for the screen, laid the plot in a Balkan kingdom where the colorful action takes place with swiftly moving episodes that revolve about the romance between a strolling gypsy dancer and the heir to the throne.

As the gypsy girl, Miss Crawford gives the outstanding performance of her career and follows her triumphant characterization in "Our Dancing Daughters," and with John

Hoover Enjoys Fun at the Equator

Over the side of the U. S. S. Maryland, as it crossed the equator on its way south with the Hoover party, clambered King Neptune, capturing the ship and all who never before had been "below the line." Mr. and Mrs. Hoover were exempt, for he had crossed the equator fourteen times. But their son, Allan, and some 800 others of the guests, officers and men were hazed by Neptune, who was here with Mrs. Hoover, the President-Elect, and Captain Kimberly of the Maryland.

RICE LAKE MAN IS FIRST LEGISLATOR TO REACH MADISON

Manager of State's Southern Tour Last Year Has Established Quarters

Madison—(P)—Assemblyman C. A. Beggs, of Rice Lake is the first of the "winter crop" of legislators to arrive in Madison. He has already established quarters here for the 1929 session of the legislature and is watching the political situation preliminary to the session develop.

The Assembly member, who was secretary-manager of the state's southern tour which advertised Wisconsin through eleven southern states last year, said that he expected the legislature to pass another appropriation this year for another advertising tour. Despite opposition that might come up, he said, most of the legislators will see the value of the state advertising and will accede to the demand of several mid-state counties for an official tour.

Mr. Beggs said his insight into the political workings was not yet complete enough to forecast a winner between Assemblyman Reis, Eber, Perry and Prescott for the speakership of the "lower" house. The speaker of the last session, Eber, he considers, has a good chance at the chair again, although Reis looms as a serious contender, and should demands of several progressives that Mr. Eber be relegated to the floor of the house be fulfilled, the first of the legislative immigrant to Madison believes that Mr. Reis is almost certain of having the rostrum seat. Reis is Alvin C. Reis, Madison attorney, University of Wisconsin debater and member last session, secretary of the interim committee on water power and Progressive floor leader during a great part of the 1927 session.

There is a chance that a split in the Progressive ranks over Reis and Eber might give Assemblyman Perry, former candidate for Governor, the chair, in the opinion of Mr. Beggs. He said he expected Mr. Prescott, Milwaukee, to throw his support to Mr. Perry and that if certain element of the Progressive faction, through the possible split on their own candidate, because of wet sympathy for Prescott and out of respect for the veteran Mr. Perry, might vote for the latter, in enough numbers to seat him.

SEEK FUNDS FOR HELPING DISABLED

Madison—(P)—The annual state membership campaign of the Wisconsin Association for the Disabled has started to fill the organization's need for clinics for crippled children, printing of reports and informal matter and administrative work.

The state meeting of the association will be held here January 24 with Elks, Pythians, Rotarians, Kiwanians, Optimists, Federation of Women's clubs members, Parent-Teacher club representatives and other groups participating.

At a luncheon the problem of the crippled adult will be considered and at the afternoon meeting hospitalization of the crippled child will be the paramount issue, consideration being had of the proposed 250-bed hospital that may become a part of Wisconsin General state hospital here.

The dinner meeting will be devoted to discussion of the present needs of crippled children. Francis E. McGovern, former governor of the state, will act as toastmaster. Fred Atwood, Minneapolis, a lecturer, will be a speaker.

TWO AUTOMOBILES ARE STOLEN AT FOND DU LAC

Two automobiles were stolen at Fond du Lac over the weekend according to word received at the Appleton police department. A 1925 model Buick coupe, painted light brown, was stolen Sunday morning. It had the license number, D-67089 and the motor number, 1489764. Sunday night a 1927 model Buick sedan, painted blue, was stolen. It had the license number, D-56883 and the motor number, 1747861.

"Sucker Lists" Have Many Appleton Names

Many an Appleton man who has considered himself on the outside of "sucker lists" of stock promoters, has been rudely brought to earth during the week on receipt of a letter offering to let him in on a silver mine proposition in the west. Nearly every prominent business and professional man in the city has received letters from the company which offers a chance at $1,500 for investment of $10.

However stock promotion schemes at this time are thick, according to Kenneth Cobett, secretary of the chamber of commerce, especially in view of the high market on many well known stocks on eastern exchanges.

Appleton business men daily have been receiving lengthy telegrams from alleged representatives of eastern brokerage houses urging that certain stock be purchased through them and nightly local telephone wires are cluttered with what the boys call "fish" letters on stock conditions.

Some of the promoters use the telephone too, it is said, and one instance where a man was called from his bed at 1 o'clock in the morning to answer a long distance call from New York has been recorded. The New Yorker suggested that certain stock be purchased the next morning and asked to handle the business.

An $8 telegram sent collect was the answer the Appleton man gave. Luckily the alleged broker accepted the message.

ILLNESS HAMPER MAIL DELIVERIES

Postmaster and Seven Clerks and Carriers Are Confined to Homes

Work of distributing and delivering mail has been greatly hampered at the Appleton postoffice because of the large number of regular and sub carriers and clerks who are confined to their homes with illness. Monday morning there were eight men absent including F. F. Wettenge, acting postmaster.

The rush of Christmas mail has started and practically the entire crew available has been put to work. The number of parcels arriving by each mail was so great Monday that nine extra trucks and drivers were added to the regular force of three trucks and drivers. Each of these trucks has a route of its own and handles all parcel post mail that district.

At present the greatest rush of Christmas business is noticeable in the amount of parcels being received. There has not yet been the great increase in first class mail which is experienced every Christmas. This is expected, however, within a day or two.

The basement of the postoffice building has been pressed into service and is being used for sorting and sending out parcel post matter.

RURAL TELEPHONE CO. DUES ARE FIXED AT $20

Dues of the Twelve Corners-Mackville Telephone company will be $20 per share, an increase of $5 per share over last year, according to notices being mailed to stockholders. A deficit of about $2,400 caused the increase, it was said. In addition to the dues the stockholders must pay toll charges. Collections are to be made from 9 to 3 o'clock on Wednesday, Jan. 2 at Meltz's store in Twelve Corners and from 9 to 3 o'clock Thursday, Jan. 3 at Greshbach's store at Mackville. Stockholders who do not pay before Feb. 1, according to the notices issued by Fred A. Mueller, secretary will have to pay a penalty of 25 cents.

An $8 telegram sent collect was the answer the Appleton man gave. Luckily the alleged broker accepted the message.

Several Christmas Parties Are Arranged for Youngsters in New London

Special to Post-Crescent
New London—Christmas parties for the children of the city fill the week with festiveness. The first to be given is the annual Christmas party Monday evening at the Popke grocery. Miss Popke, New London's woman grocer, inaugurated this custom many years ago, when her first grocery store was conducted in a front room of her home, and where mothers of the neighborhood brought their children to see Santa Claus, who entertained the children in the store while mothers sat comfortably in the kitchen munching Mrs. Popke's fruit cake and drinking her coffee. Since her removal to the business district she has kept up this custom and entertained about 600 children and parents annually. Gifts and entertainment and the presence of St. Nick will make this one of the high spots in the week.

NEW LONDON SOCIETY

New London—A pretty party of thirty-four was held at the Elwood hotel Saturday when Mr. Morton C. Traylor and Mrs. George W. Ruppel were hostesses at a one o'clock luncheon. Favors were small sprays of mistletoe and holly. Following the luncheon bridge was played at the Traylor home, ten tables being in use. Prizes were awarded to Mrs. Carlton Reuter, who held high score, Mrs. A. M. Hutchinson, second high, and to Mrs. G. A. Vandere, consolation.

Robert Magadan was guest of honor at a birthday party given Saturday evening at the home of his brother, Emil Magadan and family. Turkey Favors Sunday
As National Rest Day

BY PRISCILLA RING
Angora, Turkey—(AP)—Islam has been shaken to its foundation by the report that Mustapha Kemal, dictator of Turkey, would soon issue a decree abolishing the ancient Moslem sabbath of Friday and adopting the European Sunday. Kemal, Turkey's head boy of Asia, is preparing to throw this last stone at the mother continent from whose soil the Ottomans sprang, and in so doing break the remaining bond with Asiatic Islam. No official order has been promulgated but leading Kemalists here in the nation's capital avow openly that it is only a question of weeks before this new revolutionary edict is issued. Again sacred tradition must bow before economic necessity. The new Turkey, striving to strengthen her business as well as her diplomatic bonds with the west, can no longer afford to sit in her mosques on a day when occidental markets are humming or keep her own markets open on that other day which the west spends in church or on the golf-links.

NEW CHRISTMAS CARDS
IN MODERN DESIGNS

New York—(AP)—Christmas greeting cards and wrapping papers have "gone modern." Traditional designs of Christmas trees, candles, halos, Santa Claus and plum puddings this season are giving way to the same ideas expressed in discs, angles and curves. For those who prefer the old form there are designs with reproductions of the favorite scenes and stagecoaches, but even these are bigger than ever and are touched by the modern vogue in the lining of the envelopes, which display profusions of angles and curves in pink, purple, red, black, gold, gray and green.

CLINTONVILLE HIGH
QUINT IS DEFEATED
BY SHAWANO, 19-11

Locals Are Handicapped by Loss of Regulars Ill With Influnza

Special to Post-Crescent
Clintonville—On Friday evening the Clintonville high school met their first defeat when the Shawano five defeated it 19 to 11. The local team was somewhat handicapped by the absence of Elton Dille from their lines and the fact that most of the members of the regular team have been confined to their homes by the influenza and were not in the best of form to play on Friday evening.

Coach Burdette Ace, sent the following players to the floor at the start of the contest: Carson Muel, center; Ronald Schmidt and John Muel, forwards; Alton Marshok and Walter Martin, guards; Florence Robi alternated with Monty as forward. The score at the end of the first half was 13 to 2 in favor of Shawano. Carlton Schultz substituted for Robi during the last half.

Friday evening, Dec. 21 the local boys will meet the Menasha high school basketball team on the Menasha floor.

The Chicago and Northwestern Railway company has made an application to the railroad commission of Wisconsin requesting permission to discontinue the station at Huntington as an operating station and permit it to operate as a prepaid station in charge of a caretaker. The railway company maintains that the station does not pay enough to warrant an agent. A hearing of the matter will be held at a later date.

Hereafter flyers over Clintonville will be able to identify Clintonville by a large sign painted on the roof of the large store room at the Bear Wheel Drive Auto company. "Clintonville" has been painted on the roof in large letters 20 feet high and ten feet wide with the name of the company underneath in smaller letters. This is in keeping with the practice instituted throughout the country.

FUR FARMERS MUST
WATCH THEIR STEP

Railroad Commission "Blue Sky" Division Issues New Orders

Madison—(AP)—The Wisconsin fur farming industry, youngest that is growing, has received its orders from the state railroad commission. "Blue sky" division, or the department set up to regulate sales of securities in the state.

The commission has found that stock promotion schemes have been pushing in the fur farming "game" and other forms of fleecing have been going on for some time. The commission has issued orders requiring under which the farms must be financed if backers are to sell stocks in Wisconsin.

Permits will not be issued for sale of muskrat "units," in marsh fur farm ventures, because there appears no practical way of identifying the units or determining their number on hand at a given time, thereby insuring the exact increase of a unit. The commission said if it gave permits for the unit sales of animals it might give rise to a "bullet shot" business in the industry. It would be a simple matter to sell short and prove that the rancher was actually doing so.

It was explained some companies sought to sell investors animal "units," which might or might not be in existence, and from which the investors were to have a part of the muskrat bred in their "units."

Etna's Crater May Open
Again, Scientist Says

New York—(AP)—Mt. Etna's present destructive lava flow represents only first stage of volcanic eruption.

The seco d, gas explosion, and the third, ash-expulsion, do not always follow, but Dr. Chester A. Reeds of the American Museum of Natural History, who recently completed a review of volcanoes in action, says that volcanologists are watching to see what Etna will develop. Culmination may be either prompt or delayed in a series of disturbances.

Of the world's 66 active volcanoes, Dr. Reeds says, "it is apparent that each acts more or less independently of the others, and that the activity of most of them is intermittent, with paroxysms of greater or less violence occurring at intervals of comparative, or even complete, repose."

Etna's last serious outbreak was 18 years ago, but that period is a brief unit when measured by repose periods of hundreds of years in some volcanoes. Other volcanoes have active periods recurring in a few years.

Dr. Reeds' studies show how the lava flow keeps moving day after day even when its forward speed is only a few feet an hour. Although the surface of the flow, exposed to air, cools quickly, even to permitting close approach, the interior remains molten. When lava is sufficiently hot, it forms a protecting skin upon coming into contact with water, leaving the molten mass inside to flow along the sea bottom without other disturbance at the surface than steam clouds at the point of contact. The last flow of lava into the sea in Hawaii, swimmers above the lava found parts of the water only warm.

RESTORES OLD CHURCH ATTENDED IN BOYHOOD

Fond du Lac—(AP)—After six years of silence the little abandoned Lake Maria Methodist Episcopal church, near Markesan, once more echoes to the sounds of a congregation at worship because of the affection a man held for the church of his boyhood.

Ellery Pendell's father helped haul the lumber for the little meeting house 63 years ago, two years after Ellery's birth. Ellery attended services there.

Pendell now is a retired farmer. When he heard that the church was closed because it needed repairs, he supplied money and effort to renovate it and reopen it for worship.
